Harriman Bid Fails

Key States Rebuff Truman, Swing Vital Votes to Stevenson

CHICAGO (UP)—Gov. Averell Harriman's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination collapsed today.

Marilyn's Diary

Well, folks!
We discovered Gus Ryder's secret yesterday. In spite of him. We all knew Gus was feeling a little out of sorts before the swim and since that time but we thought it was just tension and disappointment.

Marilyn

But yesterday, Gus had to give in and call Dr. Wride. It was only then that we found that Gus has been suffering from a wicked boil on his shoulder.

He had it before the swim but he didn't want to make a fuss about it in the middle of all the other excitement and he must have suffered a lot of pain out on the boat.

It got so bad he had to stay in bed all day yesterday but Dr. Wride gave him some medicine to clear up the pain and Gus got up for breakfast with the rest of us this morning.

I am on the wounded list, too, with Gus. The night after the swim, I bit a big chunk out of my tongue while I was sleeping and it is still sore.

Yesterday was one of the most enjoyable days I have spent in Victoria. All I did was eat and loaf around with no swimming.

We went down to the Breakwater to see John Jeremy and Bill Sadlo take off and then we went to the Poodle Dog Cafe for lunch. I had a mixed grill which included sausages that melted in my mouth.

In the afternoon we went to the movies—the "Eddie Duchin Story"—and then back to the Old Charming Inn for dinner. I had eaten so much lunch that I just picked at supper.

Brenda Gets Gifts, Cash For Lake Swim

TORONTO (CP)—Admirers have heaped more than $2,250 in cash and gifts worth several hundred dollars more on marathon swimmer Brenda Fisher who Monday broke Marilyn Bell's record for crossing Lake Ontario.

Brenda's biggest cash gift was $1,000 from an anonymous donor.

Brenda's gifts include an automatic gas hot-water heater; a year's supply of shampoo; a silver-plated service for six; two year's supply of soap, candles and sponges; a half-dozen blouses; a chrome electric kettle; a year's supply of nylon stockings; free meals for the balance of the year at a restaurant; an orchid weekly for six months; a complete set of make-up and a hairstyle; a four-fur neckpiece; free hairdo for six months; a custom-tailored suit; and a male budgie bird.

B.C. Ships Collide

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Union Steamships of Vancouver said today that its 1,800-ton tourist cruise ship Coquitlam will be out of service for one week after suffering heavy damage in a collision Monday.

The Coquitlam collided with the 157-foot tug Mogul of Egg Island in Queen Charlotte Sound during a dense fog.

The New York governor's campaign managers privately admitted that Adlai Stevenson "apparently has enough votes" to win the nomination.

Harriman, however, continued to go through the motions of trying to line up additional delegates.

Harriman's aides said the continuing attempts by former president Truman to salvage the governor's bid were doomed to failure and that "we must now face the fact that Stevenson has a substantial vote."

WON'T WITHDRAW

Harriman headquarters, however, denied reports the New Yorker planned to withdraw from the race.

It was learned from a reliable source that the governor's strategy from here out would depend on how Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and other "favorite son" candidates handle their delegates. Some of these favorite sons already were breaking to Stevenson, practically sewing up the nomination for the Illinois governor.

Latest tabulation shows Stevenson with 591 votes—less than 100 fewer than the 686½ he needs to win the nomination.

About the only thing that could ruin him now would be for the convention to get into a party-splitting row over civil rights.

Stevenson, already odds-on favorite to get the nomination, drove toward a first-ballot victory by cracking northern state delegations whose votes had been tied to favorite sons—first Michigan, then New Jersey.

SOUTH SATISFIED

Meanwhile, the platform-writers came out with a racial rights plank that they were reasonably sure Southern delegations would swallow.

Many Southern delegations, inclined toward Stevenson, have been hanging on to their votes until the platform issue is settled.

The Stevenson drive spurred early today when Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan released his 44-vote state delegation with a proposal that other wait-and-see delegations follow suit. A caucus poll indicated Stevenson will get at least 32½ of Michigan's votes on the first ballot.

NONE FOR HARRIMAN

Before mid-day Gov. Robert B. Meyner announced that New Jersey will cast all of its 36 votes for Stevenson on ballot No. 1 Thursday night.

Harriman had banked on a few votes from northern New Jersey.

The proposed civil rights plank, which will go to the convention along with the rest of the 1956 campaign platform tonight, was a compromise laboriously designed to foster party harmony.

COURT BACKED

The proposed plank would affirm authority of the Supreme Court to rule on segregation but would reject use of force to carry out its order that white and negro children be educated together in public schools. It also would pledge the party to work for education of all American children "without discrimination" as to race.

Key southerners described the plank as not necessarily satisfactory to them but "acceptable."

So safe did Stevenson's lead look in the third day of the convention that the vice-presidential nomination began to take on new interest.

It was reported Stevenson was leaning toward Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), instead of Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Thousands 'Go Navy' For Big Fete

Traffic Snarl Follows Parade

By MONTE ROBERTS

Any doubts that Victoria is a "navy town" are being dispelled today as mounting action at sea and on shore brings the Pacific Command to the people.

It's Navy Day—a bigger one, in number of naval personnel and number of civilian spectators—than ever before.

Starting with a giant parade which mixed precision marching and stirring music with good-natured clowning, Navy Day will continue until midnight or later, ending with a street dance at Beacon Hill Park.

The parade which stepped off at 10 a.m., attracted spectators three deep along both sides of the route, from Pendray and Belleville, along Government, Yates, Douglas, Fisgard, Blanshard, back to Douglas and then to Beacon Hill Park.

Traffic jams which threatened to set a new record for Victoria started to form immediately after the parade. By noon, cars headed for the park were bumper to bumper from Superior to the park along Douglas, on Government and Cook streets.

TRAFFIC CRAWLS
All available police were in action trying to unsnarl the crawling traffic.

The parade itself was a surprise in more ways than one. Instead of the usual concentration on precision marching and stirring band music, a leavening of humor was in evidence in many of the floats.

And it was a surprise, too, to many spectators who thought they had seen it all when they'd seen only half.

One of the floats broke down, causing a 20-minute break in the parade, sending scores on their way convinced it was all over.

The parade started in traditional fashion, with color guard, ships' bands, and ramrod-straight marching divisions.

But the floats were different. Models of commissioned ships in the Pacific Command were followed by an entry from the Naden CPOs and POs' mess, illustrating the ideal sailor's life—a matelot reclined at ease on a rose-colored cloud as lovely ladies from South Seas and Oriental nations formed an honor court.

RCAF FLOAT
The RCAF got in its lick at the navy w/h a float showing a tar ensconced comfortably in a cask of rum, happily blowing bubbles.

The strait swim craze was lampooned with a float depicting the "Chat Ham Chief" with an announcer croaking "He's been in the water 17 years and stroking strongly—water temperature is 70° below zero."

As the parade broke up, a mass assault on Ogden Point Docks was carried out by nearly 2,000 boys who poured aboard navy ships moored there to take off on a two-hour cruise.

This is the first year the navy has taken youngsters to sea, and a certain amount of grumbling was heard from envious parents as their boys strode proudly aboard.

Just prior to sailing time, at 11:45 a.m., each of the 10 ships was awash with eager youngsters. Some had to be restrained from climbing the rigging, but that was about the only restriction.

Nasser Ready To Take Advice

LONDON (UP)—Egypt suddenly decided today to send a top-level "observer" to tomorrow's 22-nation Suez conference. The sharp about-face was disclosed on the eve of the Big Three-sponsored talks which Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser rejected so bluntly on Sunday. Nasser ordered his political director, Wing Commander Ali Sabri, to fly to London Thursday.

LONDON (AP)—Pakistan's foreign minister said today President Nasser of Egypt told him he would agree to maritime nations advising on Suez Canal operations but insisted "it is the sovereign right of Egypt to run the canal."

Foreign Minister Hamidul Huq Choudhry, arriving for the Suez Canal conference from talks with Nasser, said the Egyptian president is ready to enter into a covenant with all nations who signed the 1888 Convention guaranteeing freedom of navigation in the canal.

Choudhry told reporters at the airport: "The Egyptian president wants a peaceful and happy solution to the problem. He is not adverse to the setting up of a body representing the users of the canal to advise the organization which he has set up to manage and administer it. He still believes it is the sovereign right of Egypt to run the canal."

Choudhry's airport statement came as the Big Four foreign ministers plunged into an intensive series of separate meetings to discuss their program at the conference starting here Thursday at 11 a.m. (3 a.m. PDT).

FITS BAGHDAD REPORT
The Pakistan foreign minister's statement also fits in with a report from Baghdad that Egypt has asked Iraq, the only Arab country that is a member of the Western Baghdad Pact, to mediate the Suez dispute with Britain.

Opposition Opens Issue Despite Delay in Courts

Political opponents of Premier Bennett's Social Credit government vowed today they will force the famous Sommers-Sturdy case on to the hustings as an election issue, despite the fact the slander suit involved is now before the courts.

They said they will make the accusations of corruption involved in the suit a major issue although Premier Bennett says he will not discuss it in public because it is a sub-judice.

Legal sources and court authorities told the Times today the slander suit cannot possibly come to trial until after the election. The pleadings have not been completed, and one source said Sept. 21, two days after polling, would be the earliest it could possibly be heard.

Smoldering Since Last December

The Sommers-Sturdy case has been smoldering in the background of B.C. politics ever since Dec. 7 last year when Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy and Vancouver accountant, Wilmot Eversfield, set with Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Sturdy said he and Mr. Eversfield offered the attorney-general "a body of evidence" regarding allegations of corruption and asked to have it investigated by a royal commission.

The attorney general told Mr. Sturdy that the intimations of a "conspiracy" on the part of seven B.C. firms and their directors appeared to him "far-fetched."

Mr. Sturdy then went before the royal commissioner, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, seeking to have his "body of evidence" heard in public. He was refused on grounds that the Sloan Inquiry's terms of reference were not wide enough.

R. E. Sommers, then minister of lands and forests, filed suit against Sturdy, claiming damages for alleged slander in the lawyer's statement before the Sloan commission.

Then, on February 27, Mr. Sommers resigned his cabinet post on the floor of the Legislature in one of B.C.'s greatest political sensations. He said he intended to devote his time to clearing his name. He retained his seat as MLA for Rossland-Trail.

His resignation precipitated the famous all-night battle in the House when opposition members blasted the government through the small hours of the morning in a demand for a royal commission of investigation.

Premier 'Afraid,' Opponents Claim

"If there is corruption in this case it must be rooted out," Liberal leader Arthur Laing said today. "The public is entitled to know the basis of the charges against him." Esquimalt police commissioner Elvan Walters, CCF candidate for Esquimalt, declared Premier Bennett was taking "an unfair advantage" of the electorate in calling an election before the Sommers-Sturdy case had been resolved.

"The premier's bluff tactics are unfamiliar in this part of the world," he said. "We must stand firm and not let him get away with it."

Bitter Pipeline Fight Marked Historic Session

(From Times News Services)

The third session of the 22nd parliament which ended Tuesday night will be remembered as one that rocked the Speaker's throne and produced outbursts of bitter feelings unmatched in decades of Canadian politics. It also was the second longest—152 days, only three short of the 1903 record.

Hon. Rene Beaudoin, 44-year-old, survived an unparalleled opposition motion of censure, later submitted his resignation under opposition fire and finally withdrew it at the request of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The government used, to an unprecedented extent, its powerful closure weapon to put through a June 7 deadline a controversial bill to help finance a private company's $375,000,000 venture to pipe Alberta natural gas to eastern Canada.

Fight Marked by Riotous Revolt

Progressive Conservative and CCF parties waged a three-week procedural fight to block the bill, challenging the government's tactics by raising repeatedly points of order. The chair consistently ruled against them and the situation culminated in a riotous revolt against the chair's authority, with echoes which continued for the rest of the session.

Those were the events which made the third session of Canada's 22nd Parliament unique. There were other issues, including an early-session opposition fight lasting 12 days against the government's plan for assisting prairie farmers with a glut of grain stored on their farms, which helped stretch the length of the session—the first under new rules designed to speed up work.

On Aug. 10 the House surpassed the 148 sitting days of the 1907-08 session. This left the length of the 1955 session second only to that of 1903, which sat a record 155 days. In 1953 the House sat 139 days and last year 140.

But the most hectic period, in which crisis followed crisis, stretched from May 8, when Trade Minister Howe announced the government's pipeline plan, to July 9, when Mr. St. Laurent announced that Speaker Beaudoin's proffered resignation would not be carried through.

'Puppet, Dictator' Charges Hurdled

The high point came June 1—called "Black Friday"—when Conservative and CCF members stormed in open rebellion into the centre aisle of the chamber before Speaker Beaudoin. They claimed he had made improper rulings to help speed passage of the pipeline bill and had wrongly refused to hear their arguments on the rulings. They waved their fists and shouted: "Puppet! Dictator!" CCF Leader Coldwell stood in front of the mace and shook his fist.

Opposition Leader Drew made a censure motion charging the Speaker with "subordinating the rights of the House to the will of the government."

A week later, after the pipeline bill became law, the censure motion was defeated 109 to 35. The House divided as it had on the pipeline, with the Liberal-Social Credit majority backing the Speaker and the Conservative-CCF members voting for censure.

The rift in the Commons widened on June 29 after parts of a private letter by Mr. Beaudoin to a Montreal newspaper man were published in Montreal La Patrie. In it the Speaker said "my accusers distorted the facts for their own political ends." Mr. Drew said this removed from the Speaker "any possible suggestion of impartiality." The situation was intolerable.

On July 2 Mr. Beaudoin submitted his resignation "to take effect at the pleasure of the House" and asked that it be accepted as soon as possible. He said he wanted "to regain my full freedom of speech" and denied his rulings had ever been motivated by partisan feelings.

St. Laurent Rejects Election Bids

The resignation could not take effect at once. The prime minister, who has the prerogative of nominating new Speakers, was in London at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Mr. St. Laurent, returning to the Commons a week later, made the bombshell announcement that Speaker Beaudoin was willing to stay on. He said "an overwhelming majority" of members had confidence in Mr. Beaudoin.

Conservative and CCF parties protested but made no further attempt to unseat the Speaker. Instead they redoubled previous demands that Mr. St. Laurent dissolve Parliament and call an election. They said the Commons should not continue lacking unanimous confidence in the chair.

The prime minister rejected the election challenges. The Speakership issue grew out of the biggest legislative battle in decades.

The government proposed a loan of up to $80,000,000 to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. for the prairie section of its Alberta-Montreal line. Also to be established was a Federal-Ontario crown corporation to build the $115,000,000 northern Ontario section and lease it to Trans-Canada.

The Conservative-CCF opposition hammered at the idea of financing a company they said was 83-per-cent owned by powerful United States interests.

Most of the fighting was on procedural grounds with tactics based on the June 7 target date set by the government. If the bill was not passed by then, Trans-Canada would have been released from its undertaking to complete the prairie line by Dec. 31.

The government weapon was the debate-limiting closure motion, used as it never had been on the seven previous occasions in Parliament's history when it was employed.

The device was originally fashioned to cut off prolonged debate. But Mr. Howe, with prior indication of an opposition filibuster, put closure machinery into motion the first day the measure came up.

Closure, capable of ending each stage of debate in two days, was applied at all four stages of the bill's progress. Each time House sittings extended well beyond 1 a.m. and once the House sat until 4:41 a.m., the latest hour in at least 20 years.

The opposition counter-attack of block and delay was to challenge the legality, under House rules, of nearly every government move. Each time the chair upheld the government. Twenty-four rulings by the chair were challenged, voted on and upheld. Altogether an unprecedented 70 votes were taken during the bill's passage.

There were side developments passage of a bill which ratified government action begun in November, to guarantee bank loans of up to $1,500 at five-per-cent interest on farm-stored grain. All three opposition parties argued at length that the Canadian Wheat Board should instead provide interest-free cash advances.

There was no opposition, however, to another government bill to pay a year's storage charges on wheat carryovers in excess of 178,000,000 bushels at the Aug. 1 start of each crop year. It meant a $32,000,000 payment for the 1955-56 year.

Parliament also approved the first trade agreement ever signed with Russia. Russia agreed to buy a minimum 44,000,000 bushels of wheat during its three-year term. The budget presented by Finance Minister Harris March 20 cut a small $12,000,000 from government income by freeing a scattering of special-use goods from the 10-per-cent sales tax. It forecast a peacetime record of $4,650,000,000 in budget spending and a $113,000,000 surplus for the year ending next March 31.

There were a few other changes in the budget, notably the announcement of a new excise tax of 20 per cent starting next Jan. 1 on gross advertising revenues of special Canadian editions of foreign magazines—those carrying Canadian advertisements not appearing in the magazine's domestic edition.

Deaths and illness also made news. Joseph W. Noseworthy, CCF member for York South, died March 31. John Lorne MacDougall, Liberal member for Vancouver Burrard, died in the parliament building as the Commons assembled for its June 6 sitting.

Social Credit Leader Low, stricken with a heart attack last fall, did not return to his desk until April. Later, an operation kept Justice Minister Garson from the Commons for 15 months. Then, in the last days of the session, Mr. Drew was advised by his doctor to take a rest.

Ross Thatcher, member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, jumped to Liberal ranks on July 23 from his seat as an Independent. Only a year earlier he had bolted the CCF party under whose banner he had been elected three times since 1945.

The switch left party standings in the 265-seat House: Liberals 170; Progressive Conservatives 53; CCF 22; Social Credit 15; Independent 3; vacant 2.

A Senate-Commons committee closed out three years' study of capital and corporal punishment and lotteries and handed Parliament a hot issue by recommending retention of the death penalty in Canada but substitution of electrocution or gas for the hangman's noose.

The matter will be left over to next session, together with recommendations on prison reform by a committee headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux.

New federal tax-sharing proposals to the provinces were passed. To take effect next April 1, they provide for deductions of 10 per cent of the federal personal income tax, nine per cent of corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties to cover provincial taxing in those fields.

The plan also provides unconditional share-the-wealth equalization payments to less-wealthy provinces, and stabilization guarantees for provincial revenues.

The central government's total commitment to the trans-Canada highway program was boosted from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000.

U.S. Sets Up Oil Pool Plan

Emergency Supply Arranged For Europe if Suez Closed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States government Tuesday announced an emergency program designed to supply Western countries with oil in the event Suez shipping is halted.

The plan is based on the pooling of resources by United States petroleum producers.

Mobilization director Arthur S. Flemming said 13 U.S. firms engaged in foreign oil operations have formed a "Middle East emergency committee" to work out a co-operative program.

He added that if Suez shipments are blocked and pipelines in the area shut off, Britain and Western Europe would have to ration oil—but that no reduction in American consumption is foreseen. The canal was seized by Egypt July 26, and a conference opens in London Thursday on the question of a return to international control.

Companies represented on the committee are planning a three-way program of emergency action.

The plan provides for pooling of terminal, storage and transportation facilities for maximum efficiency; inter-company exchange of crude oil to meet needs; and the adjustment of production to reduce transportation problems.

Apparently the pooling "without regard to ownership" would apply to the big private tanker fleets.

It is estimated that Western Europe, including Britain, receives about 1,250,000 barrels of oil daily through the canal, plus an additional 850,000 barrels through pipelines into the

The Dismal Session

THE SESSION OF THE CANADIAN Parliament which ended yesterday was the longest and most unsatisfactory of modern times. It could not fail to damage the St. Laurent Government. On the other hand, it failed to improve the reputation of the Opposition. Even more regrettable, its scenes of fury and disorder must have undermined public confidence in Parliament itself.

But happily, after the hysterical interlude of June, Parliament seemed to repent this folly and toiled patiently through the summer, making up for lost time and, it is to be hoped, restoring public confidence.

In retrospect it is now clear that the Government grievously mismanaged the sessional business by leaving the chief item of business to the eleventh hour. Then it was compelled to apply closure to assure a start on the gas pipeline and, using an instrument long repudiated by the Liberal Party, applied it with a clumsy hand.

The Opposition had every right to resent this procedure but its behaviour was as clumsy as the Government's. Instead of arguing the merits of the pipeline deal—a highly questionable contract to say the best of it—the Conservatives and the C.C.F. spent most of the available time wrangling about the rules of Parliament and whipping themselves into hysterics.

This sorry spectacle produced a sorry sequel. Whether his decisions in the furious pipeline debate were right or wrong, Mr. Speaker Beaudoin lost the respect of the Opposition. When his private correspondence, attacking the Conservatives, was published he rightly offered his resignation, since he had discredited himself as a Speaker enjoying the confidence of the entire House of Commons.

If his resignation had been accepted he could have continued his promising career in politics, the Government could not be charged with flouting Parliament's will and a new speaker could have received support from all parties.

But at this point Mr. St. Laurent, having allowed the Government's business to drift through the spring and regarded the proceedings of the House almost as a spectator, suddenly intervened to refuse Mr. Beaudoin's resignation. That was one of the few foolish things ever done by the Prime Minister. It may have satisfied his followers in Quebec. It shocked public opinion in the rest of the nation.

Finally, on the debit side of the parliamentary ledger, an inconclusive debate left the whole nation wondering where our defence program stands. It has been condemned in detail by responsible soldiers, and upheld by Mr. Campney in generalities but neither the Government nor the Opposition has cared to call the military critics before a parliamentary committee and examine their charges.

Both parties preferred to blur the whole issue. And in the end nothing could have been more feeble and unconvincing than Mr. St. Laurent's remark that General Simonds and General Macklin were trying to alarm the country; for if there is anything at all in what they say it is high time the country was alarmed.

On the credit side, however, the session has produced some positive accomplishments that should not be forgotten.

The most important was Mr. Harris' budget. Foreseeing the danger of inflation when many economists predicted the opposite, he refused to reduce taxes and his wisdom has been fully confirmed by subsequent events. The budget also provided for a fair settlement of the perennial taxation quarrel between the national and the central governments. It was a sound and courageous budget, disfigured only by the magazine tax, which the Government defended half-heartedly and which the Opposition did not seriously oppose.

If this sessional record represents the low point of the Government's history it shows even more plainly the failure of the Opposition. The Conservatives may have achieved some negative gains by the blunders of the cabinet and the strange aloofness of the Prime Minister. They produced no policy of their own.

The Opposition may be glad to forget, but the public will not, that the Conservative Party is on record as demanding a reduction in our defence program at a moment of acute international danger, and a reduction in taxes at a moment of dangerous inflation. It is also on record as opposing the pipeline contract without offering an alternative; as opposing American economic penetration last spring and, a few weeks later, welcoming American capital; as demanding greater protection for Canadian industry without daring to admit the inevitable logic of higher tariffs.

After this deplorable session a tired Parliament needs a holiday to collect its thoughts. And this autumn or next summer at latest the nation will need a general election to clear the air.

Biggest and Best

THE TWELVE-HOUR DISPLAY featuring the annual "Navy Day" today bears out the Navy's prediction that this would be the biggest and best to date.

From the varied program offered to the public—the parade, the exhibits and demonstrations—the taxpayers—who support this branch of our defence forces can get a better picture of what goes on in the senior service. They can see some small part of the intricate equipment that provides the sinews of today's navy, catch a glimpse of the physical and mental skills necessary to man our ships and guns, and view as well the good humor and spirit that must prevail in any "happy ship."

The institution of Navy Day is not an old one. But it is a very acceptable one, and indeed it has become a very important one.

This is particularly so when the event is carried off with the ability and dash that has become standard with the Pacific Coast Command. To Rear Admiral H. E. Pullen, his officers and men, Greater Victoria extends congratulations on a good job well done. To each citizen the navy has become a closer, more personal entity, and fortunately it is of a calibre such that the more we see of it the better we like it.

An Anti at the Picnic

MR. FRANK SNOWSELL, a former CCF member of the legislature and an active party worker, apparently holds some reservations regarding the CCF Party manifesto drawn up in Winnipeg a few days ago.

The official declaration took a very lenient view of capitalism, and indeed welcomed it as a necessary part of a country's economy—a far cry from the strict socialist attitude that marked the original Regina manifesto.

But with the ink of the Winnipeg publication hardly dry, Mr. Snowsell has launched a sharp attack at a local CCF picnic on "the new industrial feudalism" which he claims threatens our individual freedoms.

Evidently he is making it clear that he lines up with the left wing of the party, in contrast to such moderates as Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan and federal party leader M. J. Coldwell.

Mr. Snowsell singles out Alberni and the great industrial development carried out there by the H. R. MacMillan logging interests. Such large-scale projects, he says, present a greater threat to freedom and democracy "than at any time since the revolt against the autocratic monarchs at the end of the 18th century."

As picnic oratory that may be all right. But it does not stand up under analysis. For what is the actual effect of this terrible feudalism under which the Alberni district now suffers?

It means that at an expenditure of well over $100 millions of private capital productive plants now give employment to more than 3,500 men and support for their families. It means that payrolls, homes and attractive communities now exist to a far greater extent than ever before. No man has to work there if he does not choose. But the job is there for him—a good living—if he wants it. This is feudalism?

And the grim feudal baron, grinding the faces of the poor—could it have been who he bought and set aside Cathedral Grove as a permanent playground under the name of MacMillan Park; or he who provided the 300-acre Smith's Landing recreational area at Sprout Lake; or he who has given hundreds of thousands of dollars for university research to perpetuate the forest wealth of this province?

If progress and jobs and public benefactions are feudalism then there will be millions throughout the world today—including millions now living under socialist regimes of one kind or another—who would jump at the chance to come and "suffer" under it.

Trying to Bring Him Down Off His High Horse

WEEPERS AND WAILERS

By B. A. TOBIN

What Happened Out There?

THERE'S been quite a hullabaloo about Marilyn Bell's ordeal. A number of newspapermen have lifted their hands temporarily from their typewriters to give them a piteous wailing. Columnists who usually are as tough as rawhide in their reactions have back-flipped into maidenly hysterics over the cruel treatment meted out to the Toronto swimmer. The sob's and wails of anguish have almost drowned out the senseless remarks of that smiling, nice-mannered youngster—but not quite.

Tobin

Marilyn and her friend, Cliff Lumsdon, have a joke while swimming. When the going gets tough Cliff will say, "What a way to make a living!" They're polite enough to confine the remark to their own trade, but you certainly couldn't blame them if they privately cast a thought or two to some of the working press as well.

A few of the outcries over Marilyn's first attempt to beat the Strait may well have been genuine. The outcriers may really have held the ideas they expressed. But it is difficult to believe that the veteran swim reporters could have so misinterpreted what was going on.

You have to look a little further for the cause of all the crocodile tears. You have to look as far east as the smoke and dust of a metropolitan newspaper circulation war will let you. And you may not like what you see.

So much for the background noises. The play itself is much easier to follow. Let's get a few facts straight.

How They Do It

Some time ago I read an interesting article by Dr. Roger Bannister, the English runner who was first to break the four-minute mile. A medical man as well as a top-flight athlete, he was in an excellent position to analyze what goes on in "last gasp" efforts, and the effects of terrific exertion on a well-trained physique.

I recall particularly how he described the process of driving himself down the home-stretch. All the strained parts of his body were signalling frantically to his brain to halt this ordeal. The muscles, heart, lungs, taxed to the utmost, were sending in their automatic SOS messages.

Under normal circumstances these messages would have taken priority, the brain would have called a halt to further effort and permitted the body to regain its proper state of balance.

But this was the point where human will intervened. Bannister described how his mind, trained for such emergencies, was able to ignore the SOS signals; turn off the circuits, at least temporarily, which were conducting the messages, and hence drive his body to further effort.

Thus to his physical effort was added mental effort, for as he described it, it took terrific will power to ignore those appeals from his body and order it not only to continue but to increase its performance.

That is what is demanded of champions. That is what is required of a man who is to run faster than anyone else ever did. The same thing applies in any physical sport.

The key point of all this, of course, is that this was a trained athlete. His body could stand this extra demand without more than temporary distress. Let an untrained person try it—if he could control his will enough to do it—and something would go boom.

So now we come to the case of Marilyn Bell, whose endurance in the strait provides a parallel.

She Can Take It

With years of general training behind her, and several weeks of special training under local conditions, her 18-year-old body is equipped to stand extremes of muscular effort, of temperature and of prolonged endurance that would quickly run the average person into hospital. Not only can she stand far more but she can snap back more quickly to normal.

Professional channel swimming, like breaking the four-minute mile, is not a gentle Sunday afternoon pastime. It is a tough, gruelling battle against an unrelenting opponent. Only the best can get anywhere at it. And Marilyn is one of the best.

Thus, when she reaches the periodic stages in the course of a long swim when the heart and lungs and muscles cry "Stop!"—as they did for Bannister—she must ignore them and struggle on. To overcome them she must have encouragement, and that's where the value of a good coach comes in.

An expert like Gus Ryder, particularly when he has trained so long with one athlete, can gauge very accurately just how much his protegee can stand. Getting the athlete to co-operate in pushing that barrier ever farther back—to the point of complete exhaustion—is the secret of championship coaching.

It's a matter of close teamwork.

They Work Together

So let us have no more talk of Simon Legree methods and "cruel glints."

As for the drowning scare, Marilyn has adequately answered that. I watched her from a few yards away, with a pair of binoculars focussed on her for good measure. In my opinion she had reached, for the time being, the limit of her endurance.

But with all that life-saving talent within arm's reach, any insurance company would have accepted her as a good risk. If she never gets any nearer to drowning than that she'll be around for a long, long time yet. And that's something Canadians can look forward to with pleasure.

As Our Readers See It

Out of Place

The Dean did not have to wait long for an answer to his sermon on Jehovah's Witnesses.

I consider the sermon cowardly, unchristian and out of place.

Unchristian and out of place as it was delivered in a building set apart for the worship of God whose Son said: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, soul, mind, body and strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

I have had members of this sect call at my home in Portage la Prairie before the First World War; in Yorkton after the war, and several times in Victoria. They are very zealous, etc., but they always acted as gentlemen and they usually left when I told them I was born again Easter Tuesday, 1895, in my own bedroom and that I knew in whom I had believed and who is able to keep that which I had committed unto Him against that day.

Evolution

The explanation of evolution as given by "Rationalist" in your issue of Aug. 7 is interesting, especially the fact that all living organisms are related to each other. But just how they are related is the moot point.

Oh that one could actually observe it operating! But it requires untold millions of years, and what is life's span (at present) in comparison?

Some eminent scientists add to the difficulty. Prof. D. M. S. Watson of the University of London states: "Evolution itself is accepted by zoologists not because it has been observed to occur or can be proved by locally coherent evidence to be true, but because the only alternative, special creation is clearly incredible."

Sir Arthur Keith said: "Evolution is unproved and unprovable. We believe it only because the only alternative is special creation and that is unthinkable." And your correspondent says, "Evolution is not described in the Bible." So where can those who read their bibles look for accurate proof of evolution if it's not there.

But those who have faith in the eternal true God who is not anthropomorphic but who created man in His semblance are not puzzled, uncertain or confused by the words "In the beginning God created... everything after its kind... and God saw that it was very good." Everyone is at liberty to accept or reject the Bible's simple accurate explanation of the origin of life—there is no compulsion.

The deity is eternal. The proof of that is creation itself, as the thing created is less than the Creator.

From 'a Senior Conservative'

With reference to your editorial of the 24th ult., I took the trouble to refer it to one of the senior members of the Conservative Opposition and I quote from his reply as follows:

"The criticism in this editorial is extremely unfair. On the first point we have urged reduction of taxation because such a large surplus is accumulating and not on a basis of reducing defence expenditures at all."

"On the second point, George Pearkes was only speaking along the line being considered in several NATO countries, including the United Kingdom, as to whether it would be possible to make some reduction in defence forces in view of the development of hydrogen bombs."

"The editorial is obviously making a mountain out of a mole hill."

"As for Thatcher, he got himself elected with the help of the CCF and for many years preached their doctrines although all the time he was a prosperous hardware merchant. I think when the break came they had no regrets. Many of us were not surprised when he made this second flip and we are very dubious as to just how deep his 'Liberal convictions' are. They were very glad to get him because they had taken such a pounding in recent months that it would have been encouraging to get any convert."

Words and Deeds

From The New York Times

SINCE Stalin's death torrents of words have flowed from Moscow and oceans of ink have been employed there to assure the world of the Soviet Union's desire to "reduce international tension."

Amid the present extreme tension caused by the latest developments in Egypt we have a good opportunity to judge the difference between Moscow's words on this matter and its actual deeds. The difference is indeed profound as well as highly instructive.

We are indebted to Egyptian Premier Nasser for having exposed the Soviet Government as a direct party to an official falsehood. In his speech announcing the expropriation of the Suez Canal he revealed that his arms deal last year was with the Soviet Union, and not with Czechoslovakia.

Only last Oct. 12 an official Tass statement in Pravda had branded as "groundless" complaints about this arms deal directed to Moscow, Egypt and Czechoslovakia had merely engaged in a normal commercial deal with which the Soviet Union had no relation, Tass assured us for the Soviet Government. Now we know it was a simple lie.

The Soviet Government, of course, had a good motive for seeking to deceive the world. It knew that the sale of arms to Egypt would increase tension in the Middle East and it sought to escape responsibility for that increased tension. From that initial intervention have come the increasing self-confidence and insolence on the part of Premier Nasser which have culminated in the Suez Canal's seizure and all it threatens. The Soviet Government, for example, could at any time in the past months have denied the reports spread by the Egyptian Government that the Soviet Union wished to finance the Aswan Dam.

No such action was taken, and thus Moscow helped another lie to gain currency.

All this makes clear once again that the Soviet Union has no real desire to reduce international tension when such reduction is against its own interest. The Soviet interest in the Middle East is that there should be a maximum degree of tension between the states in that area and the West.

In that effort the Soviet press has already begun supporting the Egyptian seizure of the Suez Canal. The object, of course, is to win control of the Middle East by playing upon the fanatical nationalism there.

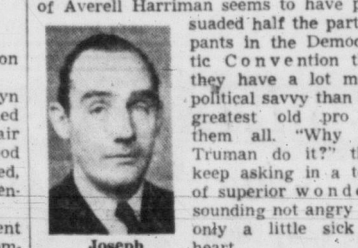

The basic tragedy is that the Middle Eastern peoples too often do not see through this manoeuvre. A Nasser plays the Soviet game without reflecting upon the fate of his fellow Moslems enslaved in the Soviet Union, in Azerbaijan and Tadzhikistan.

But we at least can hardly fail to see the harsh reality of Soviet intentions which is nakedly revealed by Soviet double dealing in this explosive situation.

Harry Places His Bet

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Chicago

THESE reporters are not among those who count themselves smarter about politics than Harry S. Truman. This modest disclaimer is now in order because Truman's bristly firm endorsement of Averell Harriman seems to have persuaded half the participants in the Democratic Convention that they have a lot more political savvy than the greatest old pro of them all.

Joseph

Well, surely the answer is that Truman did it because he wants to see Harriman nominated and thinks that, with his help, Harriman has a chance—maybe a narrow chance but still a chance—of getting the nomination. It will be a tough, rough fight, but no one reveals in carnage more than Harry S. Truman.

It is a very long shot bet, but Harry Truman has won long shot bets before this. So he yielded to the temptation to do what he wanted to do all along.

Rather early on, the former President decided he wanted the New York governor in the Democratic race this year. He helped to persuade Harriman to declare himself in—which was perhaps not dreadfully difficult to do.

Preferred Candidate

A few weeks ago, he told Harriman in plain terms that he was "for" him, in the sense that Harriman was his preferred candidate, better in his opinion even than Adlai Stevenson, whom Truman had also encouraged to make the contest.

Thereafter, the question between Harriman and Truman did not concern Truman's preference. The question was whether Truman would make a public fight for Harriman, or would stop at telling those who asked him that he liked Harriman better than any of the others.

In a phrase of Harriman's, the question was "whether Truman would take his coat all the way off or only half off."

The Harriman camp were well aware that they needed all the help Truman could possibly give them. They worked over him at every opportunity, hardly leaving him time to drink a toast in peace when he went to New York for his daughter's wedding, for example. But even on the eve of the convention, neither Averell Harriman himself nor any of those around him actually expected Truman's active, open endorsement, with all its far-reaching, dissension-making consequences.

In the week before coming to Chicago, Truman told the Missouri national committee, Mark Holloran, and other Missouri delegates that he was indeed for Harriman.

He said he would be pleased if the Missourians stuck to favorite-son Stuart Symington for at least two ballots, to give the Stevenson bandwagon a chance to be stopped. But even on the train to Chicago, Truman told his personal entourage that he intended to maintain a public neutrality.

Final Choice

That was his apparent intention, in fact, almost until the opening of his famous press conference, at which he first promised to reveal his choice.

It is a fair bet that the last straw of persuasion was laid on the sometimes yielding camel's back of Truman's prudence by Judge Samuel Rosenman, an ardent Harrimanite, with whom Truman conferred just before the press conference began.

After that, the problem was not what Truman would do, but how he would do it. Streams of Harriman supporters urged a powerful statement. Streams of Stevenson admirers sought to avoid the worst, which would have been a statement hinting that Stevenson was not a "fighting candidate."

In his own suite, just half an hour before giving it to the public, Truman gave his statement for Harriman a trial run among his special intimates such as Leslie Biddle, Charles Murphy and Donald Dawson. He was delighted, visibly exulting over the thing he was about to do.

At least half the members of the Truman circle were not delighted. They feared the trouble ahead. They thought Stevenson would get the nomination anyway or at any rate believed that Harriman could not be nominated. This conviction is increasingly widespread in Chicago. But when Harry Truman makes a gamble, it is always wiser to defer judgment until you find out how the bets are paid off in the end.

Time, Weather by Phone

LONDON—The publishers of a well-known Year Book thought it would be a good idea to run as the frontpiece of their latest issue a full-color reproduction of the now famous Graham Sutherland portrait of Sir Winston Churchill. But from Churchill they got a very definite no. Instead they followed the suggestion that they carry a picture of the flatterer statue of him which stands in London's Guildhall.

Reyburn

The Sutherland portraits of Lord Beaverbrook and Somerset Maugham, neither of which by any stretch of the imagination could be regarded as pretty pictures, are seen frequently reproduced.

But Churchill, apparently hopes that the portrait Sutherland painted of him to mark his 80th birthday will be forgotten as soon as conveniently possible.

Although of tremendous interest, it has never gone on public display; British galleries that have sought to show it have been turned down. Last heard of, it was in a back room of Churchill's London home, stored away with a cover over it.

For more than 20 years Britons have been able to dial TIM on their phones and get the time. A recorded woman's voice announces it continuously. Now the Post Office has started a new service, Dial WEA any hour of the day or night and a recorded voice gives you "The official-Met. weather forecast, brought up to date every few hours."

Met a fellow in the park with a most fearsome-looking bulldog. However, on acquaintance, the dog proved to be friendly and docile. Nevertheless its owner always carries some pepper in his pocket. Reason: if the dog ever does clamp its jaws around something, like a ball or a stick or (when provoked) a portion of another dog's anatomy, there is only one way to free the vice-like grip—some pepper-sprinkled on its nose makes it sneeze and it has to let go.

In the United States last year every person drank an average of half a pint of Scotch whisky. Consumption in the U.S. of this huge dollar-earning British export was a million gallons up on 1954 at 8 million, out of the 200 million gallons of liquor Americans got through in the year.

Get your tape measure out, girls, if you want to know whether you have perfectly shaped legs. Biggest stocking manufacturer here says that perfection is: ankle 8 1/2 inches, calf 13 1/2 inches, thigh 20 1/2 inches, length of leg 32 1/2 inches. The firm says: "If you're a North American girl add half an inch to that 'perfect' combination because Miss Average is bigger over there."

My wife, who says this country may be regarded as the land of the thick ankle, comments: "Correct—except in the case of the ankle measurement. Subtract, don't add, half an inch."

Blake here has the solution of the problem of cops who put chalk marks on your tires to check how long your car has been parked. Before setting off downtown he gives a piece of chalk to his young son and tells him to go to work. The cops see such an assortment of chalk marks that they retreat in confusion.

Prepare For Winter Flowering Pots Now

If we wish to enjoy flowering pot plants during winter, the preparation must be done now.

The Persian cyclamen which gives many weeks of bloom will commence flowering about the first of December. If old corms are started into growth at this time.

Shake the old soil from around the roots and inspect the corm to see that no insects lurk there.

Hilda

Prepare a soil-mixture of screened compost, leaf soil or Blue Whale, and coarse sand in equal parts. Take a clean, shallow pot a few sizes smaller than the old one in which it bloomed last winter and put in enough broken crock and charcoal to ensure perfect drainage.

The corm should be set half in and half out of the soil, and then the pot may be kept outdoors in a shady spot until the end of September if no frosts occur.

After the first leaves appear, water may be given sparingly at first, increasing the supply as growth develops.

The calla, known sometimes as an arum lily, or a calla lily, may be treated now in essentially the same manner.

Since this plant is not in fact a lily, there is no bulb but a fleshy rootstock. The top of this, where growth may be just showing, is planted level with the soil, using a regulation deep pot instead of the shallow type needed by cyclamen.

WILL BE FIFTH

Election For N.S. This Fall?

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Premier Henry Hicks' liberal administration in Nova Scotia is preparing to go to the polls this fall, according to unofficial word received in the Canadian capital by Maritime members Wednesday.

It will be the fifth provincial government to go to the polls this year. Quebec, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan have already had their elections. British Columbia has announced it will have an election this fall.

In each case the sitting government has been re-elected.

Nova Scotia held its last election in May, 1953. The government there does not have to go to the country again until next year. But Premier Hicks is reported to be anxious to hold his election in advance of the federal election and the unofficial word reaching Ottawa was that he may call his election for this fall.

Prime Minister L. St. Laurent has flatly refused to state whether or not there will be a federal fall election. Most members as they packed up to leave Ottawa, were of the opinion that the next general election would not be called by Mr. St. Laurent until June, 1957.

Three Killed When Truck Rams Car

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP) — Three persons were dead and eight others hospitalized today following a collision between a tractor trailer and a car near here Tuesday night.

The dead were Mrs. Florence Hill of Burton, Ont. and two children, Sharon Van Sicle, 10, and Roy Morgan, 7.

The accident occurred 15 miles southwest of Hamilton. The truck went out of control and jackknifed, hitting the car which carried two adults and eight children. The impact snapped a hydro pole and crumpled the cab of the truck.

Norse Frogman New Mystery

OSLO (Reuters) — The Norwegian Navy's leading frogman, Lt. Cmdr. Ove Lund, lost his life Monday during a "naval exercise" in Oslo Fjord, the Norwegian Admiralty announced.

The announcement came as Russian naval vessels which had been visiting the Norwegian capital sailed for home.

An Admiralty spokesman said "it was an accident," and that Lund's death had no connection with previous reports of an unidentified submarine seen in the mouth of the fjord.

The underwater expert's death recalled the mysterious disappearance of Britain's Lionel Crabbe, who disappeared while Russian ships were in the British harbor of Portsmouth earlier this year.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

What Diseases Cannot Do

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation.

One of the things we physicians most need today is knowledge of what certain diseases can NOT do. For instance, some months ago I saw a woman who evidently had suffered great injury to her brain, apparently from a stroke. From her husband I got the story of its sudden coming and the subsequent great mental change in her. She was feeling weak, terribly tired and miserable; her brain didn't feel right, and she had lost all interest in life, her children, her husband, and her home. She walked with a slight limp; her face was dull and without expression, and her mouth was a bit lip-sided.

Dr. Alvarez

What distressed me as a teacher of medicine was that when the woman had been put through a thorough medical over-hauling and gallstones had been found, the young doctors had decided that her troubles were all due to these stones. But a few minutes' questioning showed that she had never had any indigestion, or gas, or abdominal pain. The gallstones were as silent and harmless as if they were out in her hand-bag. They had nothing to do with the case. Her troubles were all due to the little stroke which had wrecked her brain. As often happens in such cases, my advice to leave the gallstones alone was over-ruled by the woman's family, and an operation was performed. Today, the poor woman wishes she had not permitted it because she is now so much more tired than she was before. An operation on the abdomen never cures a stroke.

AMEBIASIS

Many persons tell me that they have been treated for two or three years for amebiasis and still they are as miserable as when they started. Practically always in these cases the symptoms are clearly those of nervousness, and it is doubtful if the person ever had amebiasis. A laboratory girl can easily make a mistake because a droplet of fat can look much like an ameba. But certainly if the woman ever did have amebiasis it was not producing her symptoms. One can have a few amebas just as one can have a few fleas, but they are unable to produce any symptoms.

Usually, it is obvious to me that the woman was born to be rather frail and full of worries and aches and pains everywhere, perhaps like her sickly mother before her. When I ask carefully, I find that she never had an attack of diarrhea, and she never went travelling in a tropical country where she might have picked up some amebas. (I know they can be picked up in this country, but such slight infestations rarely cause symptoms. I do not see a case of true amebiasis once a year.) Most of the few patients with so-called amebiasis that I see were attended by a physician who is so enthusiastic about this disease and so sure that it accounts for practically all the symptoms of nervous people, that he treats most of his patients for amebas. Naturally, most of his medical brethren suspect that all of his diagnoses are wrong. I remember such a man who told me that he, with his small practice, always had a dozen patients in the hospital with "amebiasis."

TREATMENT SIMPLE

If a person has recently travelled in a tropical country, and if there he got an attack of dysentery, his stools should certainly be examined, and if amebas are found, he should be treated. But after three years of practice in a tropical country, I feel sure that most persons can be practically cured of amebiasis with one day's treatment. If, after that, a few amebas are still found, another day's treatment will usually wipe them out.

But here's the important point: if, after a few days of strenuous treatment with a drug which kills the amebas in the bowel, the patient goes on just the same with all his old nervous symptoms, I am satisfied that the amebas had nothing to do with the case, and I would never think of carrying on treatment for the parasites. The surest sign of a wise doctor is his ability to say to a patient, "Sure, you have gallstones or a diaphragmatic hernia, or a fibroid on your uterus, or a little goiter, or some varicose veins, but they are silent; they have nothing to do with your symptoms."

In my day I have seen many persons from tropical countries whose intestines were swarming with amebas but who had no symptoms, and were the picture of health. They had never had any diarrhea or any illness. It is this type of case that medical enthusiasts over amebiasis should see often and then ponder over.

A LUMP IN THE THROAT

Millions of highly nervous people complain of a feeling that they have a big lump in the throat which won't go either up or down. This is what the Greeks described over 2,500 years ago as a "globus." It is due to nervousness and never to anything else. Hence persons who have this sensation had better not waste money on doctors and medicine. If they will keep a little diary they will see that the "lump" comes usually when life has "gotten them down" a bit.

Newsman Flies

Over North Pole

To Drop Memorial

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)

A Negro journalist from Baltimore has returned from a 14-hour flight over the North Pole, where he dropped a memorial to Admiral Robert E. Peary's "right hand man," Matthew A. Henson, a Negro who accompanied Peary to the pole.

Herbert M. Frisby, correspondent for the Afro-American News-papers, made a flight over the pole aboard one of the USAF 58th weather reconnaissance squadron's B29s.

She strides happily to the next stop in her shopping safari, proudly carrying her trophies in paper bags neat and bright enough to be part of her costume. Protection... convenience... hallmark of quality are three important ways in which shopping bags serve both customer and retailer.

The average Western Canadian family used 450 paper bags last year, and it probably will use twice this many within 25 years. To serve this mounting demand, Crown Zellerbach, a pioneer British Columbia company, has increased its bag-making capacity, and expanded its research activities, as part of a new $4,500,000 paper converting plant at Richmond, B.C.

Here millinery, notion and grocery bags, in differing sizes and colours, will be manufactured in growing quantity. And with them will come more check stand, lunch and garbage bags... more garment, laundry and shopping bags... more waterproof, greaseproof, siftproof and insulated bags.

Goods that clothe and feed the nation move from retail shelf to home on paper... our daily contribution to better living.

The bag machines of Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited last year turned out 624 million paper bags, which were put to a multitude of uses, from packaging machinery to candy.

Nomination Rush Grips All Parties

A nominating convention to select three Liberal candidates to contest the Victoria city riding in the Sept. 19 election is being arranged by Victoria Liberal Association.

The executive will meet Thursday to set a date for the convention.

George Gregory, who won the seat in a by-election against former finance minister Einar Gundersen in November, 1953, is the only person sure to be nominated.

Similar executive meetings will be held for the Saanich and Esquimalt associations Friday evening.

Esquimalt Liberals have already chosen George Whittaker to contest the seat held by Social Credit Herbert J. Bruch.

Social Credit has nominated 15 candidates so far, the CCF 10, Liberals 3, Progressive Conservatives and Labor, one each. Candidates nominated so far (with members of the last legislature in black) are:

SOCIAL CREDIT

Victoria—Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Lydia Arsen, Ald. Don Smith;

Alberni—W. J. Carr, building contractor;

South Okanagan—Premier W. A. C. Bennett;

North Okanagan—L. Hugh Shantz;

Salmon Arm—J. Alan Reid;

Kamloops—Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

Funeral Held For Sidney War Veteran

Funeral services for First World War veteran Frederick Walter Bowcott, 87, were held in Sands Funeral Chapel, Sidney, on Monday.

Interment followed at the family plot at Holy Trinity Church cemetery, Patricia Bay. Rev. William Buckingham officiated.

A resident of Sidney for 47 years, Mr. Bowcott died Thursday at the Veterans' Hospital here. He was predeceased by his wife, Annie, on Aug. 11, 1954.

Born in Hereford, England, he served with the Imperial forces in the Shropshire Light Infantry for 12 years, in Cairo, China and Malta.

LIFE MEMBER

As a member of the 88th Battalion, CEF, he served five years in the First World War with the 30th Reserve Battalion.

Mr. Bowcott was a life member of Victoria Unit No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans.

He is survived by two sons, Frederick Gordon of Victoria, and Bert Edward of Sidney; a daughter, Mrs. Alan Thomson of Victoria; six grandchildren, and a sister in England.

PLAN TO LEVY TOLLS

Brothers Prove They Own Part of U.S. Highway 99

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—Four brothers who blocked busy Pacific Highway U.S. 99 in southern Oregon Sunday and claimed 16 feet of the highway was theirs, won their point Tuesday.

The state highway commission, after two days of searching the records, admitted with red faces that the 16-foot strip somehow had been overlooked by the state previously, and Robert, Harry, Clair and Allan Stumbo do indeed own it.

The Stumbos said they planned to levy a toll on highway users, but the highway commission said it had other plans.

W. C. Williams, deputy state highway engineer, said the commission will negotiate with the Stumbos for sale of the strip.

Skeena—Hugh Shirreff, storekeeper.

Dewdney—Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

Nelson-Creston—Provincial Secretary W. D. Black.

North Vancouver—Ald. Mel Bryan and retired executive Newton P. Steacy.

Lillooet—Don Robinson.

Comox—school teacher Dan Campbell.

Nanaimo—Mayor Earle Westwood.

Vancouver-Burrard—Health Minister Eric Martin and Bert Price.

CCF:

Vancouver East—Harold Thayer, provincial CCF secretary, and Arthur Turner.

Burnaby—E. E. Winch and Gordon Dowling.

Delta—Walter Johnson and Jim Rhodes.

Dewdney—Naranjan Grewall.

Esquimalt—Police commissioner Elvan Walters.

Cowichan-Newcastle—Opposition Leader R. M. Strachan.

South Okanagan—Walter Ratziass, high school teacher.

New Westminster—W. J. Jones.

Revelstoke—George H. Hobbs.

Salmon Arm—W. J. Thompson.

Liberals:

Esquimalt—George Whittaker, logger;

Roseland-Trail—W. T. Walde, former mill owner;

Kamloops—Tom Wilson, president Beef Cattle Growers of B.C.

Similkameen—Doug Southwick, Penticton alderman.

Labor:

Esquimalt—Tom Whittaker.

Social Credit nominating conventions are scheduled to night in Vancouver Centre, where the sitting members, Les Peterson and Alex Matthew, are expected to be chosen, and in New Westminster, now represented by Rae Eddie, CCF.

In Trail-Roseland, held by former Lands Minister R. E. Sommers, the Socreds have moved their convention ahead to Monday after earlier scheduling it for Sept. 19. Mr. Sommers has said he definitely will be a candidate for the nomination.

At Nanaimo, the CCF executive meets today to decide whether to hold another nominating convention.

David Stupich was named 18 months ago as the party's candidate in Nanaimo and The Islands constituency, but it is reported his personal circumstances have changed so there is some doubt whether he will be in a position to be the candidate.

Mr. Stupich has promised a definite decision after today's conference with the constituency executive.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Looking in a man's wooden leg to see if he has been taking bets on the horses constitutes unreasonable search, says municipal Judge Joseph L. Call.

Judge Call dismissed a bookmaking charge against Ralph W. Pattison, 55, Tuesday, holding that detectives who arrested him had no reasonable cause to search his wooden leg.

The arresting officers claimed they found four betting markers and $3,233 in cash in Pattison's artificial leg.

Martha Raye Recovering From Sleeping Pill Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—bodyguard, Robert O'Shea, 29, an ex-Westport, Conn., policeman, was also here recently.

The actress is being sued by O'Shea's wife, Ann, 20, for alienation of affections. Miss Raye has denied romantic connection with O'Shea.

Her physician, Dr. Ralph Robbins, said Tuesday she must have taken about 20 pills. He placed her in the hospital for treatment, including a spell under an oxygen tent. The doctor said he had no idea why she had taken the pills.

Her maid discovered the actress about 3 a.m., an empty pill bottle lying beside her on the floor.

Miss Raye came to Florida in an unsuccessful attempt to divorce her fifth husband, dancer Ed Begley. A Miami judge denied the decree, however, ruling that Miss Raye had not met the 90-day residence requirement.

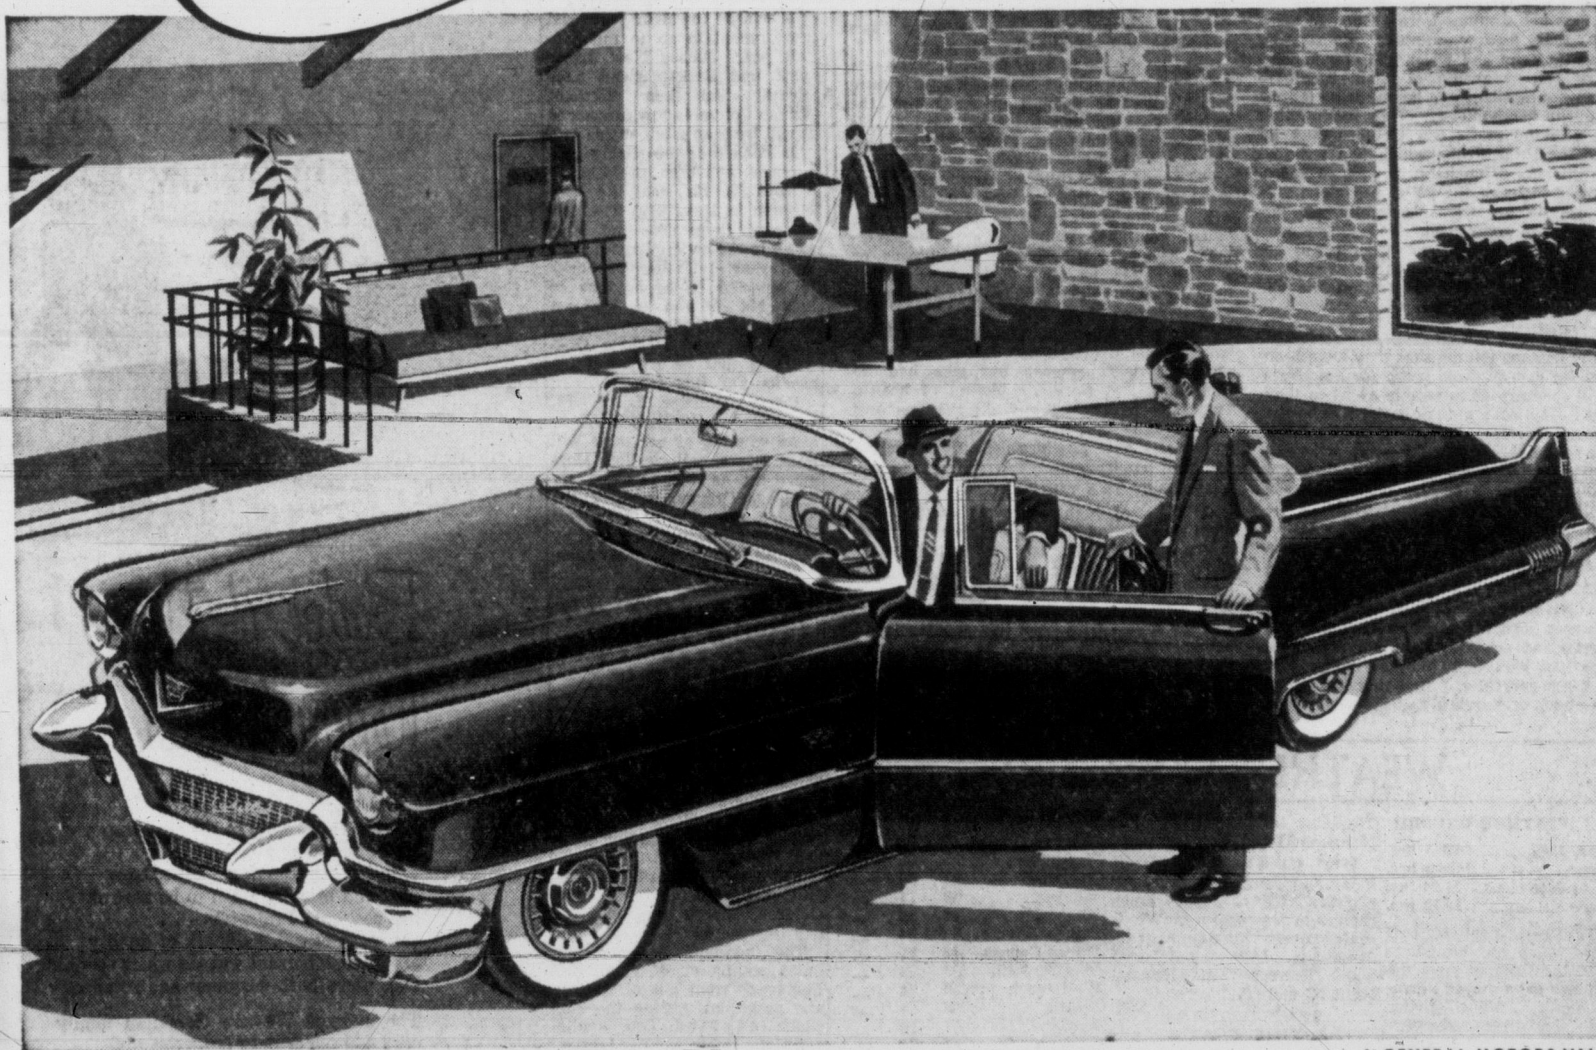

Court attendants saw her crying in the hallway outside the courtroom after the denial and reported that she seemed upset.

Cadillac

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

The Right Decision at the Right Time!

There is good reason why the man sitting in the beautiful motor car above looks so pleased and happy. For he has just put an end to doubt and worry and wonder insofar as his choice of a motor car is concerned.

He has decided to make the move to Cadillac! This, to be sure, is cause for great satisfaction in itself. For the wisdom of selecting Cadillac is undeniable. In beauty, in luxury, in performance, in everything that makes a motor car good and wonderful—Cadillac stands uniquely alone.

But not only does this gentleman know he has made the wisest possible choice of a motor car—he knows that he has made it at the wisest possible time.

For coming, as he did, at this particular season of the year, he was able to take advantage of some very favorable circumstances.

To begin with, he will be able to obtain delivery of his Cadillac after the shortest waiting period in many, many months. In fact, it is entirely possible that he will actually be able to drive home the model of his choice.

And, even more importantly, he discovered that Cadillac ownership has become more attractive and economical than ever before. Because of low used-car inventory—and as a result of an effort to broaden the base of Cadillac ownership—it is currently possible to receive an unusually generous trade-in allowance.

Little wonder, then, that this gentleman looks so pleased and happy—just as we know you will be when you get the full, wonderful facts about Cadillac today!

In fact, we should like to suggest that you come in at your very first opportunity and hear them for yourself.

We know you'll agree that the right decision is for Cadillac—and that the right time is now!

BRITISH DESIGN 'FLYING CANTALOUPE'

The above drawings by British artist John W. Wood show a projected man-made satellite for outer space. Looking like a monster cantaloupe, it was designed by three members of the British Interplanetary Society. At left, the 16-ton, three-stage rocket is shown jettisoning its ballistic nose-cone prior to the inflation of the lightweight metal-foil satellite. At right, the fully inflated satellite, six to eight feet in diameter, commences its orbit around the earth at a speed of 18,000 miles per hour. The satellite would be tracked from ground stations just before dawn and shortly after sunset by means of reflected light from the sun. The design was first presented at the Second International Congress on astronautics in London in 1951.

Navy Recruiting In Slump--DeWolf

New Entry Calibre Satisfactory; Half Sign Up for Second Hitch

By PETER MURRAY

Radar may be here to stay but the old sea dogs of the Canadian navy make sure the modern sailor doesn't place too much dependence on electronic gadgetry.

Take the word of Canada's top-ranking naval officer, Vice-Admiral H. G. DeWolf, who easily qualifies as a veteran of the sea himself.

Admiral DeWolf is in Victoria this week on an inspection tour of Pacific Command ships and installations and to take part in a number of special ceremonies with the navy.

At a press conference in the captain's quarters of HMCS Ontario Tuesday, he was asked if there is a danger of today's seamen becoming excessively reliant on modern instruments, as was suggested after the recent sinking of the Italian liner Andrea Doria.

TIME-TESTED
"I don't think any good sailor would do that," he replied. Then he added, "The old sailors all preach the time-tested methods of navigation and make sure the younger ones retain them."

Admiral DeWolf was appointed to his present position of chief of the naval staff at Ottawa at the first of this year, upon the retirement of Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy.

During his career with the RCN which started in 1918 he served as Flag Officer of the Pacific Coast at Esquimalt for two years until 1950.

RECRUITING LULL
In the interview he made these points:

Navy recruiting at present is "not too good" as a result of a relaxing of effort. However the lull is partly seasonal and an upswing is anticipated in the fall.

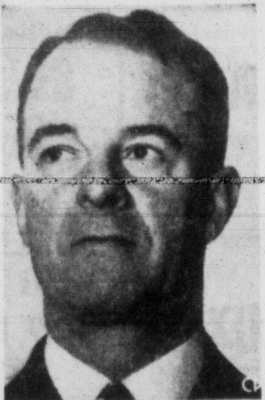

The enlistment record is

Nominating Places Named

Two bills were passed by the B.C. cabinet Tuesday, one directing the Legislative Assembly on Aug. 13, the other naming places for the nomination of candidates Sept. 5, which is nomination day.

Vancouver Island candidates will be registered for nomination at Alberni courthouse, Comox courthouse, Cowichan-Newcastle courthouse, Duncan, Esquimalt municipal hall, Nanaimo courthouse, Oak Bay municipal hall, Saanich municipal hall, Royal Oak and Victoria City courthouse.

ADMIRAL DeWOLF

good, with 50 per cent of the 18-year-olds signing up staying in the service after their first five-year tour.

Calibre of today's recruits is "very satisfactory."

Defence of the North American continent is considered a single problem of the U.S. and Canada and there is very close liaison between the armed services of the two countries, particularly in the intelligence branch.

At present there is "almost nothing" to stop an enemy submarine launching a guided missile in a surprise attack on the coast.

NOT FEASIBLE
"Canada has no immediate plans for applying atomic energy to power its ships but it has not proved feasible for smaller ships."

The principle role of the RCN in any future hostilities would be submarine hunting.

Canada's naval forces are much stronger on the east coast than the west coast chiefly because of the NATO commitments, but there will be "some levelling off" in the future to bring them to a closer balance.

"Some of the navy's 14 modern destroyer-escort vessels of the St. Laurent class scheduled to be built by 1958 will be stationed on the west coast."

Gen. Guy Simonds, retired chief of staff of the Canadian army who has created a political furor with his charges of the country's unpreparedness for war, is "entirely sincere in what he is trying to do."

At the same time, Admiral DeWolf was "very pleased" with the navy's retired admirals for not stirring up a similar hornet's nest in his service.

Channel Winds Make Fiasco Of Mass Swim

Park, 7 Others Forced to Quit

FOLKESTONE, England (BUP)—Billy Butlin's international cross-channel race blew apart today when heavy seas and high winds forced the retirement of all eight swimmers who started, including Californian Tom Park, formerly of Hamilton, Ont.

Twenty-two swimmers were to have started. Fourteen couldn't land on the French coast because of the bad weather, but Butlin insisted the remaining eight take off.

Park was next-to-last out of the water after swimming for 10 hours, 20 minutes. Northern Ireland's Jack McClelland lasted 11 hours, four minutes.

Butlin decided to share the $5,320 prize money among all 22. They each get $283, but it cost them each about $700 to prepare for the grind.

Park had been swimming brilliantly and at one stage was considered well in the running for a new record.

Channel swimming observers reckoned the conditions were the worst-ever for such a task. High winds and a swelling sea plagued the eight starters from the time they plunged in at Cap Gris Nez at 12:22 a.m. (E.D.T.).

It was the greatest fiasco in the history of channel swims, observers said.

ESQUIMALT MUSEUM PLAN FAVORED

A proposed maritime museum in Esquimalt has "received the blessing" of the Capital Improvement District Commission. Reeve A. C. Wirtzle told Esquimalt council Tuesday night.

Plans for the museum and improvements of Gorge Park, a proposed project for the commission's consideration, will be prepared by the Regional Planning Board with help of municipal engineer John Graeme.

Council decided to ask for improvement of the park area on the reeve's suggestion. "The commission has indicated willingness to consider minor improvements to local parks," he said.

City Man Dies On Holiday In England

Walter Colvin, former assistant deputy attorney-general of British Columbia, died from a heart attack in London, England, Monday. He was 65.

Mr. Colvin, who retired from office only last April 6, was visiting England with his wife.

A native of Victoria, Mr. Colvin served with the attorney-general's department for 48 years. He joined the staff as a stenographer when it had only six members and became chief clerk in 1913.

Mr. Colvin was articled to Oscar Bass, then deputy attorney-general, in 1929. He was admitted to the bar and became assistant departmental solicitor in 1932. In 1945 he was promoted to solicitor and became assistant deputy in 1954.

SOCCER STAR
In his youth, Mr. Colvin was an active soccer player. He was a member of the famed North West soccer team with Byron Johnson, J. V. Johnson, Tom Noris and Cotton Brynjolfsson.

He also served for 25 years as secretary of the Victoria and District Carpet Bowling League.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Norman, a B.C. mines department manager, and Walter, co-owner of Coast Metalcraft.

Mr. Colvin's remains will be cremated in London and his ashes will be sent to Victoria.

VON NEURATH, HITLER AIDE, DIES AT 82

ENZWEIHINGEN, Germany (UP)—Baron Konstantin von Neurath, former foreign minister of Hitler's Germany and protector of Bohemia during the Second World War, died here Tuesday. He was 82.

Nearly blind and suffering from arterial sclerosis, von Neurath died after a short illness, his doctors said.

The first of the major war criminals to be released from Spandau prison, von Neurath was set free in November, 1954, after serving eight years of a 15-year sentence.

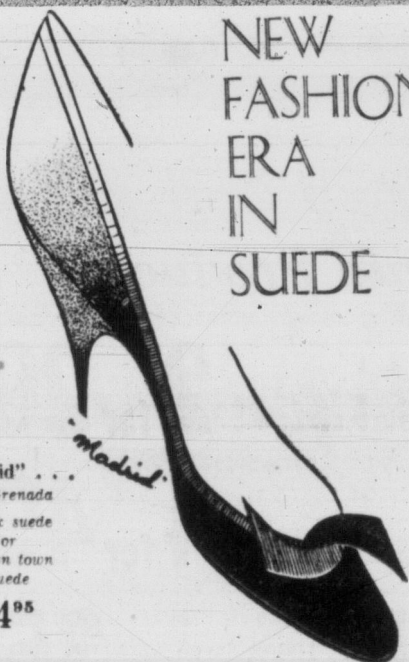

RCAF Identifies Two Pilots Killed In Jet Collision

OTTAWA (CP)—Air force headquarters Tuesday night identified the second of two victims of a mid-air collision of two Sabre jets in Europe as FO R. H. Roden, 24, of Birmingham, England.

Earlier, the RCAF had released the name of the pilot of the other Sabre jet involved in the collision on the Belgian-German border near the Belgian town of Butgenbach. He was FO Zoltan Bernard Tothpal, 23, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Both bodies were found near the scene of the collision.

HE'LL FIGHT IT AT CONVENTION

Ottawa's $30,000 Tax Take On New Bridge Irks Mayor

The federal government 10 per cent tax on municipal purchases will add between $30,000 and $40,000 to the cost of building a new Point Ellice bridge, Mayor Percy Scourrah said Tuesday in promising he would fight the tax at the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities Aug. 19-23.

This will be one of three major items Mayor Scourrah will lay before the convention in Hamilton, for which he leaves Victoria Thursday morning.

He said he will continue to press for the elimination of the tax, as the federation has done for a number of years.

Referring to the bridge, the mayor said, "For us to raise a tax to pay a tax is the height of absurdity. If that isn't double taxation I don't know what is."

He also will take a resolution from Prince George asking the federal government to increase grants-in-aid for hospital construction.

The present $1,000 per hospital bed is "totally inadequate with present costs," said the mayor.

From Courtenay comes a resolution asking for lower interest rates on money loaned for construction of sewage disposal systems.

The mayor will be chairman of a panel discussion at the convention titled "Apathy in Municipal Affairs," and believe me, that's something in which I'm interested."

He will respond to the toast to British Columbia on behalf of the other B.C. delegates from Vancouver, New Westminster, Nanaimo, Summerland and Kamloops, during the convention banquet.

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, AUG. 15, 1956

SAILS 140 FEET UP

Crowd Chilled by Flights Of 42-Year-Old Kite

KELOWNA — Sensation of the recent regatta here was the daring performance of kite man George Quinn, 42-year-old carpenter from Everett, Wash.

Spectators at the water sports had chills run down their backs at the sight of Quinn floating past at a height of around 140 feet supported by a few odd bits of spruce and canvas.

Quinn first gets going on one water-ski, two would make for excess weight once he's airborne, behind a motorboat with a 150-foot towline. At a given signal, the boat driver guns his motor, Quinn pushes against the water with his ski and in a matter of seconds he's flying.

Once he's up there it's just a matter of manoeuvring to keep himself in the air. When he's ready to come down he shakes his head, the boat driver slows down and Quinn skims gracefully back to the water on his one ski.

The kite Quinn uses weighs 40 pounds and is shaped exactly like a kite with two crossarms instead of one. The main stave is 12 feet 6 inches long, the crossarms nine and six feet, respectively. A little canvas, some airplane cable and turnbuckles complete the kit.

Quinn needs a takeoff speed of 28 miles an hour.

BIG DOWNTOWN STORE SET FOR PORT ALBERNI

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Sale of property with 66-foot street frontage in the city's shopping centre to a chain store firm operating five-and-10-cent stores was disclosed Tuesday. Name of the firm was not revealed. A restaurant and a ladies' wear shop are included in the transaction.

Elected Parks Board Asked by C. Saanich

SAANICHTON — Central Saanich council Tuesday night moved decisively for the creation of an elected municipal parks board in advisory capacity on parks.

The motion also incorporated the suggestion that park land be extended from high water mark 500 feet to seaward.

On motion of Councillor Harry Peard, council will ask Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston to consider proposals leading to election of such a board designed to work in conjunction with the municipal body in advisory capacity on parks.

The motion also incorporated the suggestion that park land be extended from high water mark 500 feet to seaward.

INTERIM LEASE
Captain Alex Barnes personally appealed to council to ask the government to agree to granting the Anchorage Boathouse an interim lease, claiming three foreshore leases in dispute had been approved by the council and that his property was not involved in the parks issue.

Councillor Ray Lamont's motion to this effect was carried.

The parks board, an appointed body, has in the past declined to grant an easement over park land giving waterfront access.

Reeve H. R. Brown made it clear he was unalterably opposed to extension of commercial floats in the central part of Brentwood waterfront residential area.

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep, speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas, helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually vanishes into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for InfraRUB. Only $1.39 a large tube. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatism pains or your money back.

FOR B.C. VOTE

Squire Helps Loggers To Register

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—John Squire, CCF, MLA for the Alberni riding, Tuesday termed the seven-day registration period for voters in the West coast, many would be denied the right to vote.

"It will be impossible for many workers in remote areas to apply for the registration forms and get them back in time," Mr. Squire said. "I have been down to the government agent's office to pick up 800 registration cards and I'm having them flown to remote and isolated districts. At least a few potential voters will get a chance at the polls that way."

A spokesman from the government agent's office here admitted that it would be virtually impossible for eligible voters on the coast, whose names are not already on the voters' list, to get their registrations in time.

"Mail communications are bad and by the time they applied for forms and we replied, the deadline of Aug. 21 would be past," he said.

Road Hookup Asked Alberni-Cumberland

PORT ALBERNI—Port Alberni District Chamber of Commerce is forwarding a resolution to Highway Minister Gagliardi asking for the completion of a road between the Alberni and Cumberland on the east coast of Vancouver Island.

Arnold McGilivray, classed the road as of prime importance to the Alberni Valley.

"The completion of Beaver Creek Road, along the valley floor to Cumberland, would provide a circular route for tourists and increase tourist trade at least 60 per cent," he said. "But more than that, it would enable the farm producing community of the Comox Valley to find easy markets in the industrial Alberni Valley."

Members of the local Social Credit Constituency Association reported that Mr. Gagliardi has al-

my side of the story

A continuing series
BY THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

Now came a cheering development, Herman Rogers received a letter from the vicar of St. Paul's, Darlington, the Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, offering to come to France and perform the marriage ceremony.

David was delighted, and telephoned George Allen in London to get in touch with the clergyman and to make the necessary arrangements for Mr. Jardine to come to Cande. He arrived at the chateau the day before the wedding, apparently a typical country parson in appearance and manner. I thought it rather brave of him to defy his bishop in order to marry us, and David and I gratefully welcomed him as a man of God.

Somehow the preparations got finished. Mainbocher made my trousseau. From his sketches I chose for my wedding a simple dress of blue crepe satin. Reboux made a hat to match.

I asked Constance Spry, the prominent London florist, to do the flowers for the wedding. She was a person whom I knew and admired. She brought her assistant with her, and in a matter of hours they transformed the atmosphere of the house.

PRESENT OF FLOWERS

I love flowers and there can be few to equal Constance Spry in the art of arranging them so that the effect seems to be entirely natural. I was enchanted. This was her wedding present to me.

David hoped that, once the Coronation was over, his family might soften its attitude and that at least some of them would attend the wedding. But yet another blow was in preparation, one especially humiliating to him.

Sir Ulick Alexander, David's former Keeper of the Privy Purse and a steadfast friend, telephoned David to say that Walter Monckton was coming to the wedding and would bring a letter from the King that would contain, as I recall the phrasing, "not very good news."

In his letter the King informed David that he had been advised by the British and Dominion Prime Ministers that he must limit the title, style, and attribute of Royal Highness to David alone, according to the rule laid down in Letters Patent of Queen Victoria.

TITLE WITHHELD

The title was to be withheld from me and from the issue, if any, of our marriage. David would henceforth be known as His Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor, and I would be the Duchess of Windsor.

The effect of this decision was to bar me, in defiance of all custom, from taking my place alongside my royal husband.

The letter enraged David. He exclaimed, "I know Bessie—I know he couldn't have written this letter on his own. Why in God's name would they do this to me at this time?"

The distinction did not seem particularly important to me. David had given up the most exalted of titles. It hardly seemed worthwhile to me to quibble over a distinction in a lesser one. But nothing in the aftermath of the Abdication hurt David more than that gratuitous thrust.

ULTIMATE SLUR

In his eyes it was an ultimate slur upon his wife, and therefore upon himself. He could not bring himself wholly to blame his brother, who, he knew, had bowed to strong pressure. But this action made for a coolness between them thereafter.

There is considerable question that the King's action in this regard was legally sound. David was so advised, a few long as it stands David will never be reconciled.

Our wedding day, the third of June, was beautifully warm and sunny.

Herman Rogers gave me away, and it must have been with a profound sense of relief that he saw me become the responsibility of another.

Here I shall say only that it was a supremely happy moment. The sorrow I had borne, the hurt I had suffered, were all forgotten; by evening David and I were on our way to Austria. En route we would stop briefly at Venice between trains.

The first thing I learned about David as a husband was that he was even more thoughtful and attentive than I had expected. Having picked Wassermann on his own, he was jittery over whether I would like it. And as the Buick labored up less the barrier stands, and as road that to my anxious eyes seemed no more than a goat trail, and every now and then dislodging a shower of rocks down the steep slopes, I began to have misgivings myself.

Then the climb was over, and before us was a most fascinating house—not a castle in the British sense, but rather a magnificent manor house in the Austrian style, with a wide courtyard paved with cobblestones, a tennis court, and a swimming pool. All around were magnificent peaks of the Austrian Alps.

David had indeed done well. On hand, in addition to Dudley Forward, was a staff he had selected himself—a chef and a butler from Vienna, various Austrian servants from Count Munster's establishment, as well as his valet and a British secretary, Mrs. Bedford.

Reid Leaves $7 Million

VANCOUVER (CP)—The late Will J. Reid, conservationist and man who led the Battle Lake fight, left a will of $7,000,000 when he died four months ago in California.

Half of the estate and the income from the revenue was left to Reid's widow. Long Beach boy scouts were left $361,250, Camp Fire Girls $18,620 and Ducks Unlimited in Alberta, $108,375.

Contents of the will were revealed in Supreme Court chambers application by Vancouver lawyer T. G. Norris who is administering the power of attorney for the widow.

TO STUDY 'DOUBLE STARS'

World-Famous Astronomers to Meet Here

Sixteen of North America's foremost astronomers will gather in Victoria this week for a special conference at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Theme of the conference, sponsored by the National Science Foundation of the U.S., is the study of "double stars." Observatory head Dr. R. M. Petrie, in charge of arrangements, said Tuesday the conference is the first staged by the Foundation outside the U.S.

Heading the list of luminaries attending is Prof. Otto Struve, professor of astronomy at the University of California. Others include Prof. Joel Stebbins of the Lick Observatory, Berkeley, Calif., and Prof. G. Van Biesbroeck, retired head of the Yerkes Observatory, University of Chicago. Members of the observatory staff here will present four papers at the conference, which opens Thursday and ends Saturday. All sessions will be held at the observatory, with a dinner planned Friday night at the Empress Hotel.

RAINIERS FIRE SEWELL; BRENNER ACTING PILOT

SEATTLE (AP)—Luke Sewell, the only man ever to pilot the old St. Louis Browns to an American League pennant, was fired Tuesday from his managerial post with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

General manager Dewey Soriano said he will be replaced by player-coach Bill Brenner in a "temporary" appointment.

Rainiers now are in second place. They have dropped nine of their last 10 games.

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

Francis Joseph O'Doul lashed out at the little white pellet; it curved serenely into the brush on the second hole at Royal Colwood Golf Club.

"I usually play better than that, Bill," said the former Major League great of a common, garden-variety slice.

"It must be something that I'm doing wrong."

This was Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, former National League batting champ, and considered by many one of the greatest hitters in the game.

A while later, Lefty dubbed another shot: "maybe I'm leaning into the ball," he said, as he tossed a "rock" on the ground and belted the practice ball into the bush.

"That's it," he said; "you've got to hit straight away."

Now manager of the Vancouver Mounties in the Pacific Coast League, O'Doul was in town with his Mounties for the exhibition game with Portland Beavers Monday night in aid of the Conquer Cancer Campaign.

"I'm sorry," he said, "that we couldn't have brought our full team over here, and put on a real show. I was as disgusted as anyone with what went on tonight."

And so were many fans. The exhibition game was ridiculous to say the least, and the fans who contributed so generously were obviously short-changed through no fault of the local committee who felt as deeply about the incident as anyone else.

Lefty likes what he has seen of Vancouver and Vancouver sports fans. "We didn't have anything at first," he said of the early season Mounties, "and yet the fans proved loyal. Today we have a good club and if we hadn't been so far out of it at the beginning, we'd be a strong contender now."

Lefty likes what he has seen of Vancouver and Vancouver sports fans. "We didn't have anything at first," he said of the early season Mounties, "and yet the fans proved loyal. Today we have a good club and if we hadn't been so far out of it at the beginning, we'd be a strong contender now."

Unfair to the Average Joe

To him Sunday baseball is the answer for the Mounties and the ordinary Joe fan. He suggested that legislation prohibiting Sunday sports is not fair to the average working stiff who sometimes only has the one day off to enjoy his sport.

"Nobody forces a fan into the ball park on Sunday," he said; "and I think they should have the right to pick their own relaxation. As it is now, the middle rich can get their sport, for example, at a golf club on Sunday, while the ordinary guy who can't afford a golf club membership is even denied the chance to witness an event, such as a baseball game."

It was in 1929 and then 1932 that O'Doul was the scourge of National League hitters as he twice won the batting championship, and only once in his 11 years in the majors did his average fall below the .300 mark.

But earlier Lefty had been concerned about his golf game, and as proof that he should be; he offered in evidence a moment that designated him as winner of the famed Bing Crosby pro-amateur tournament. Actually, twice he has won that event, and golf to him today is a great relaxation.

Hitting—It's in the Hands

And as Colwood professional Bill Court suggested to O'Doul after the match "I imagine golf is like baseball—it's all in the hands and the wrists."

"That's right," said Lefty, "I wasn't getting my hands into the swing today, and that's what I keep telling my players: Snap that bat out—straight away."

"I would, though," he added later in the evening, "like to bring the club back some time, and give the fans what they deserve—a good game."

"Could you make it a league game next time?" someone asked.

"That," said Lefty, might be arranged. Then in an aside, he concluded:

"And next time I'll play better golf too."

Timbermen Top Pils Rocks Host 'Bellies;

Victoria Shamrocks play their last home game of the regular Intercity Lacrosse League schedule tonight at Memorial arena, and coach Whitey Severson is still shuffling his lineup.

Rocks, who have long since been relegated to third place in the season's standings, play out the string against New Westminster tonight and at Vancouver Friday against the Pils.

They meet the Pils again next Tuesday in Vancouver in the opening game of the best-of-five semifinal, with the second game billed for Memorial arena Wednesday night.

Seeing action for the first time tonight will be Victoria junior Bob McKee; who is taking the place of Peevee Bradshaw, out with bursitis of the elbow.

Game time tonight is 8.30. In another meaningless game in Vancouver Tuesday night, league-winning Nanaimo Timbermen downed the Pils, 12-10.

Don Ashbee led the Timbermen with five goals, while Bobby Allan boosted his season record scoring total to 120 points with three goals and two assists.

SEEKING AN OLYMPIC BERTH

Cumberland's Terry Tobacco (right) and Victoria's Ted Whan will compete in the 400 metres and the 400-metre hurdles, respectively, Friday in the B.C. senior championships and the Olympic zone track and field trials at Vancouver. Bruce Humber clocks them here in a practice sprint.

Marlene Gets Scare; Pat Lesser Impresses

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 20-year-old Port Credit, Ont., girl stole the spotlight in the first round of the Canadian women's open golf championship Tuesday as she defended champion Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., the battle of her life before bowing out one up.

Noreen Laing, 1955 Canadian junior champion, played one of the best games of her young career as she went to the 18th green where a miss on the 14-foot putt sent her to the sidelines.

Miss Stewart, who was one down at the turn, squared the match on the 11th, and went one up on the 13th when Noreen conceded — to the surprise of everybody, including her opponent — a two-foot putt. The two matched strokes on the remaining holes.

All six Americans won their matches with comparative ease, but at least one will be knocked off today. Barbara McIntire, of Toledo, Ohio, and Mary Patton Janssen, of Charlottesville, Va., were drawn against each other in the upper bracket.

Anna Milligan, of Jasper, Alta., co-medalist at 75th Monday with Miss McIntire, faced Mrs. Graeme Pyke, of Hudson, Que., in another second-round match in the bottom group. Other contests have Virginia Dennehy, of Lake Forest, Ill., against Manitoba junior champion Donna Patton, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Maurice Glick, of Baltimore, Md., against Janet MacWha, of Montreal.

CONVINCING VICTORY

Miss Lesser scored the most convincing triumph of the day as she dumped Mrs. Joe Tachan, of Winnipeg, 6 and 6. The American displayed a wide assortment of good shots in her easy win and ranked her along with Miss McIntire, United States Open runner-up, as the players to beat in the upper bracket.

Championship results: Barbara McIntire, Toledo, Ohio, 6 and 4, defeated Mrs. W. F. Knox, Vancouver, 6 and 4.

Judy Bell, Wichita, Kan., defeated Mrs. W. B. Campbell, 4 and 3.

Rae Milligan, Jasper, Alta., defeated Betty Stanhope, Edmonton, 5 and 3.

Ontario Edges B.C. For Cup Team Title

Norman Co-Choice For Amateur

By DICK BACON

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (BUP)—Ontario's victorious Willingdon Cup team headed into today's opening round of the 52nd Canadian Amateur golf championships with defending champion Moe Norman given a good chance to repeat.

Norman, 26, was scheduled to meet Mike Pyke of Calgary in the first 18-hole match today, the first of 144 holes of match play which will wind up with 36 holes on Saturday. The stubby blond swinger, who has won 11 of 20 tournaments in which he played this year, just missed winning medal honors by one stroke.

Ontario also boasted the new national junior champion—lanky, 17-year-old Gary Cowan of Kitchener. A clubmate of Norman's at the Rocky Golf and Country Club, Cowan edged Bryan Copp of New Westminster, B.C., by one stroke.

SHARE MEDAL

Doug Sanders, 1956 Canadian open champion from Miami Beach, and Ed Meister, Jr., Willoughby, Ohio, tied for low medalist honors with four under 142s and will play off at a time to be determined later. On the strength of their play during the 18-hole qualifying rounds, both Americans shared the favorite's roll with Norman.

Ontario, led by Norman and Capt. Jerry Magee, Toronto, helped Ontario win its first Willingdon Cup since 1953 when they defeated Quebec at Kanawaki by three strokes.

Norman Magee, Bill Morland, of North Bay, and Jack Lawrey, St. Catharines, shot a low aggregate of 608, two strokes better than British Columbia, captained by Bob Kidd, of Vancouver, 74-72-146.

Manitoba was third, four strokes back, and Quebec was fifth at 630. British Columbia, gunning for its third straight title, conceivably might have won as expected if young Bob Fleming, of Victoria, hadn't lost control in the first round and shot an 83—the only 80-plus scored by the Westerners in the two rounds.

Fleming qualified for match play in the amateur.

Sanders, 23, who recovered nicely from a stiff shoulder that bothered him in practice, carded sub-par rounds of 70 and 72 over the 6,610-yard par 72-36-73 Edmundston course. Meister, after a first-round 73, scored a four-under 69, tying Norman's course record set the day before to wind up even with Sanders.

The unpredictable Norman, who has been known to hitchhike to tournaments, carry his own bag and use 18-inch tees during competition, blew a fine chance to be low medal scorer. After his first-round 69, he went out in one under 36 and then went two under with a birdie on the 10th hole. Norman shot par for the next five holes but then finished with three straight bogeys.

Other scores follow: Bob Kennedy, Moose Jaw, Sask., 71-81-152.

Bob Locke, Dartmouth, N.S., 80-82-162.

Bruce Murray, Edmonton, 82-84-166.

Bill Hutchinson, Saint John, N.B., 80-88-168.

René Lefebvre, Montreal, 82-87-169.

Don Atkinson, Vancouver, 89-93-182.

Susan Advances

OTTAWA — Susan Butt of Victoria teamed up with C. Getz of Vancouver to defeat C. Heldman and Levine from Hamtramck, Michigan, 6-4, 6-2, in the second round of the junior mixed doubles in the Canadian open tennis championships.

Ann Barclay and H. Farquhar of Vancouver downed J. Borland and D. McKush, Winnipeg, 7-5, 6-3.

Windsor, Ont.—Chuck Taylor, 134½, defeated Maxell Oltmsted, 12½, Springfield, Mass., 6-0.

DOBBYN, CARMICHAEL TO REJOIN COUGARS

Defenceman Bill Dobbyn and forward Bruce Carmichael will definitely return to the Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League this season, coach Colin Kilburn announced today.

Cougars will open their fall training program at Nanaimo civic arena Sept. 23.

STUDENTS TOP HOTELMEN

Ross Proves His 'Value'

Students 7, Gorge Hotel 1

Bud Ross, presented with the most valuable player award at the conclusion of Tuesday's senior A men's softball game at Central park, proved his right to that honor earlier in the evening.

He kept his Chinese Students in playoff contention with a 7-1 pitching triumph over Gorge Hotel.

Ross' win gave the Students their first victory after two losses in the best-of-five finals.

Ross was never in any danger until the bottom of the ninth. Fiori Goegan scored Gorge's lone run on the combination of his own single, a double by Ab Wiebe, and an error by Students' centrefielder, Bernie Sam.

Students, as usual played the big inning to full advantage as they scored five of their runs in the seventh, while scoring one run in both the sixth and eighth frames.

Tony Bishop led off the seventh by getting to second on an error by leftfielder Ben Price, and when the dust had settled, five runs had scored on four singles and two errors.

Although Gorge pitchers, Ab Wiebe and Ken Gutter, gave up only one extra-base blow, a double to George Adams, the Students rapped out 12 singles in their attack.

In ceremonies after the game, Fiori Goegan was presented with the batting championship trophy for his 362 average.

Esks Just Ordinary? Grid Openers Near

Calgary To Host Lions

EDMONTON (CP)—The 1956 Western Interprovincial Football Union season opens Saturday night and there isn't a murmur about breaking up the Edmonton Eskimos. Far from it—fans in the five league cities are beginning to think the two-time Grey Cup champions are human after all.

The Esks, who lost only two games last year in their record-breaking second-straight march to the Dominion title, open at home against Saskatchewan Roughriders. British Columbia Lions make their 1956 debut at Calgary.

The Eskimos have two "grapefruit league" losses behind them. They bowed 33-0 to the Alouettes at Montreal and then lost 33-13 to Ottawa Rough Riders—both dwellers of the Big Four in 1955.

What happens to the team that defeated Montreal in the 1954 and 1955 Grey Cup finals? HOLES TO FILL.

"We've got the same backfield as last year," coach Frank "Pop" Ivy said before the losses, "but we've got some big holes to fill along the line. That's the big question—can the new imports fill the line positions left open from last year?"

And the other WIFU teams? Following tradition, the coaches are cautious about their club's prospects. Here is what they say:

Coach Jack Hennemer, of Calgary Stampede, last-place 1955 finishers: "Defensive, we are pretty solid and I think we have a much stronger team than we had last year."

Coach Clem Crowe of B.C. Lions, who placed fourth last season: "We expect a better team than last year because... we believe we are strengthened in a spot or two... Lions will be in there battling for a playoff spot."

Al Sherman, Winnipeg Blue Bombers who finished third in 1955: "I think we've got a better team this year but, no matter what you may hear elsewhere, we're mighty thin in good, experienced Canadian talent."

Frank Filchok, Saskatchewan, runner-up to Edmonton in the regular season play: "I was fairly well satisfied with the way things went but we still have a lot of work ahead," he said after his Roughriders dropped two of three exhibition games to eastern teams.

THREE QUARTERS

Crow has had plenty of material, including three quarterbacks—imports Arnie Giffis, Tony Teresa and Primo Villanova, who also plays halfback. One of Crowe's best acquisitions appears to be halfback Ed Vereb. Holdovers include Ron Clinkscale, second-year import and fullback Al Pollard.

BURKE WINS SHOOT-OFF; OLYMPIC RACE CLOSE

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Desmond Burke, 23-year-old son of Lt.-Col. Desmond Burke, a Toronto radiologist, Tuesday night won the Macdonnell Challenge Trophy in a two-way shoot-off as duck fell across the Connaught rifle ranges 10 miles west of Ottawa.

Following in his father's footsteps, the Queen's York Rangers Rifle Association marksman posted a score of 24 of a possible 25 in the regulation five-round shoot-off to retire Sgt. J. Cathline of Camp Borden, Ont., who carded a 23.

Burke, Cathline and Sgt. M. T. Davis of Regina posted double possibilities of 100 from 200 and 500 yards in the match proper and a shoot-off was necessary to break the tie. Davis did not show up for the shoot-off.

Burke's father has been a shooting member of the Bisley team several times and in 1924 became the youngest marksman in history at 19 to win the Queen's Prize at Bisley.

Tiger-Cats Trample Blue Bombers

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Sparked by the two-touchdown performance of Ron Howell, Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers 22-10 Tuesday night before an estimated 10,000 fans in an exhibition football game which evened the Big Four Football League team's pre-season record at two victories and two defeats against Western Interprovincial Union opposition.

Ti-Cats defeated Vancouver and the Bombers, while losing to Calgary and Saskatchewan during the exhibition schedule. This was Winnipeg's first game of the year and they used newcomer Eagle Day at quarterback for 90 per cent of the time.

Double Main Mat Feature

Thursday's wrestling card at Memorial Arena will feature another double main event, including a midget tag team match.

The Australian tag team of Lord Littlebrook and Tiny Tim will struggle it out against Irish Jackie and Tom Thumb in a two out of three falls event with a one hour time limit.

Other half of the double main card will have Dick Hutton of Oklahoma grappling with Ivan Kamiroff, who somehow managed to get his name in his home town of New York.

In the preliminary, Martino Angelo is set to battle it out with Ken Kenneth.

GILMOUR BOA OF TORONTO AND GERRY OUELLETTE OF WINDSOR, Ont., were tied at the end of the second day of shooting for the smallbore rifle Olympic berth.

Lieut. Edson L. Warner of Lennoxville, Que., a member of the Sherbrooke Regiment, captured the Helmer service conditions aggregate and challenge trophy for posting the highest score in the Cornwallis, the Gagetown, the Uplands, the Sherwood, the Borden and the Sir Arthur Currie matches.

Warner posted a combined score of 351 of a possible 435 to lead a field of some 700 competitors.

In second place was Lieut. A. S. Derrick of Vedder Crossing, B.C., who finished with 342.

Frank Opsal and Earl Coldwell, both of Vancouver, qualified for the trapshooting berths on the Olympic team earlier this summer at the first trapshooting championships at Calgary.

Foul Bay Squares Boxla Final

Foul Bay 7, Jokers 3

Foul Bay bounced back from a 4-3 defeat at the hands of Jokers on Thursday to take the second game of the Senior B Lacrosse League semifinals on Tuesday, 7-2, and square the series at one game apiece.

Although held to a 2-1 lead at the half, the Bays broke loose for five markers in the second half for their win.

Protest on Thursday's game, lodged on the grounds that Jokers dressed too many players without naming a substitute goalkeeper, will be considered by league officials to-night.

Top scorers for Tuesday's game were Paul LaPointe and Frank Gower, with two goals apiece.

Scores follow:
Foul Bay—Paul LaPointe 2, Frank Gower 2, Reg. Lott, Walt Harris, Don Jokers—Whitney Wakelyn, Paul Calve. Total—2.

Swaps to Run In UN 'Cap

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., (AP)—Trainer Meshach Tenny Tuesday quickly accepted an invitation to start Red Ellsworth's California-Bred Swaps in the $100,000 United Nations Handicap on the Atlantic City turf course Sept. 15.

This was the first acceptance for the 13,165 miles grass course race, weights for which were issued Monday by handicapper James P. Ross, Jr.

Swaps had been given top weight of 130 pounds for the race, one more than for Nashua, the Leslie Combs II syndicate colt.

Nashua, who was here for the $100,000 invitational Atlantic City Handicap last Saturday was withdrawn shortly before the race due to an attack of colic.

Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons now has Nashua at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., and doesn't plan to send Mr. Millions to Atlantic City, as he has never started on the grass.

McKeachie Captures L'il League Bat Title

John McKeachie led the National Little League in times at bat, hits and runs as he racked up a sensational .540 average to cop the league batting championship for the combined first and second half schedules.

Dave Rivers, the first-half leader, placed in the runner-up position with a .508 mark, while Ken Heal's .464 gave him third place.

In the pitching department, George Hemming's 8-2 record led the league. He struck out 106 batters in 11 games. Brian Harvey, with 5-1, placed second, while Ken Heal fanned 101 to finish in third position with a 6-2 record.

Haddix, Simmons Prove Solid One, Two Punch

By the Associated Press

Harvey Haddix, the guy St. Louis "couldn't use" and Curt Simmons, a springtime bust, are having themselves a ball these days even though Philadelphia Phillies can't seem to make the unexpected boost pay off.

Howard defeated
Halifax, N.S., (BUP)—
New York lightweight Teddy Davis reversed a previous setback when he scored a 10-round decision over Canadian lightweight champion Richard Howard at the forum Tuesday night.

Howard now is 11-3 while Simmons, the 27-year-old one-time $65,000 kid who paired with Robin Roberts to pitch the Phils into the 1950 world series, is 10-6.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Philip Bailey, aged 10, of Portland, Me., for his question:

How Many Layers of Skin Do We Have?
The skin that enfolds the body is arranged in two distinct layers. The outer layer is a thin coat of horny cells called the epidermis. The under layer is a thicker coat of flesh and blood called the derma. The epidermis acts as a thin cellophane covering over the true skin below. A slight suntan may cause the top layer of the epidermis to peel away. It comes off like white tissue. In a few days, the lost epidermis is replaced. In the meantime, the sun-burned patch may be sensitive. The derma needs that thin layer of epidermis cells to protect its sensitive nerves. There is a special layer of cells right under the flakey white surface layer. They make the tones and the tints that color the skin. Strong sunlight may cause the pigments to rise and tint the surface skin. When this happens you get a suntan or a crop of handsome freckles. The derma is much thicker than the epidermis. It teems with nerves, blood vessels, sweat-glands and hair roots. The derma is cushioned on a layer of fatty cells. Below them are layers of strong, flexible muscles. Capillaries, the tiniest of blood vessels, weave and branch throughout the derma. They carry oxygen and collect waste matter from the busy skin cells. Also present in the derma is a web of complex nerves. Branches fan out from trunk lines. The tips end in little bulbs just below the epidermis. These nerve endings can tell hot from cold, hard from soft, rough from smooth. They are in constant communication with the brain. Messages flash to and fro along the branch lines to bigger and bigger trunk lines. Touch a hot stove. The information and orders flash almost instantly. The nerves scream their S.O.S. message to the brain. The brain flashes to the muscles with orders to move away fast. The whole operation is carried out before you realize what happened. The sweat glands are set at regular intervals in the skin. Their coiled roots rest in the fatty cells which cushion the derma. Their tubes go up fairly straight until they reach the epidermis. Then they jog at sharp angles until they reach the surface. Hairs also have their roots in the derma. They are set about half way down in the live derma layer. Each root is fed with blood vessels and rests in a minute pool of brilliantine. This oil is made by tiny glands at the base of each hair. The hair shaft is made of dead cells. It grows straight up through derma and epidermis. Sometimes the body orders the muscles below the derma to tense up. This pushes the skin around the hairs up into little bumps. We get goose pimples!

Andy sends a Hammond Nature Atlas of America to Julie Andelman, age 9, of Los Angeles, Calif., for her question:

How were baby dinosaurs born?
The dinosaurs were reptiles. All but a very few of the modern reptiles lay eggs. So far as we know, all dinosaurs laid eggs. So all baby dinosaurs were born when they hatched. A few fossilized dinosaur eggs have been discovered. They must have been laid by Mama Dinosaurs at least 60 million years ago. Reptile egg shells are made of soft, webby material. A baby crocodile hatches out looking just like a small copy of his parents. No doubt the dinosaurs' eggs were soft-shelled and junior hatched out looking like a small copy of his monster parents. Most modern reptiles are poor mothers and refuse to bother even with their eggs. The dinosaurs were the same way. In fact, this careless treatment of their children may well have led to their downfall. For small little mammals came to live in the world. And they loved to eat dinosaur eggs. So fewer and fewer dinosaur babies got born.

'DEADLY PERIL'

Fight Uniformity, Warns Art Expert

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Canada is in no danger of taking itself too seriously if there are many influential minds involved like that of Arthur Lismer.

The famed Group of Seven painter, teacher, lecturer and traveler, takes himself, his fellow artists and the general public with a good pinch of salt. Nevertheless, he feels that art is one of the most important influences and channels of communication among man beings.

He thinks for example that it would be a good idea if Winston Churchill could marry Grandma Moses.

"It might settle some international questions."

CITY AUDIENCE

Lismer comes to his lecture at the Victoria Art Gallery Monday night, found a "Sorry, no more room" sign hanging on the locked door.

The capacity audience heard tall, white-haired Lismer amble through a cheerful discourse during which he made clear—in spite of complex verbal parentheses and self-interruption—in mid-flight—exactly how he felt about this country's art, past, present and future, the general public, education and various details of modern living.

Lismer uses his hands expressively and allows the light of his humor to play through every aspect of his thinking.

"I believe that what is important, is art in Canada, not Canadian art," he considers uniformity one of the deadly perils of our age and one which it is the artists' sacred duty to fight.

NEW CONCEPT

"A man painting a modern picture is not committing a horror. He is presenting a new concept of the universe," Lismer remarked.

And at another point: "A picture wasn't painted for you (the individual viewer) unless you feel it was... Sacrifice your idea that a picture must give you pleasure; cultivate sympathy for the personal viewpoint of the artist."

He praised the "unspoiled inner vision" of west coast artists but sees nothing wrong with emotional reactions against modern art.

"For heaven's sake, hate a picture," he exclaimed, "until you learn to love it!"

His previous memories of Victoria include several concerning Emily Carr. He recalled a day she took him out to sketch: "There was a raven on her shoulder and I had a monkey by the hand... she plunged into the traffic. I thought, there goes Emily Carr—in more ways than one!"

BIG SHOCK

On a number of other subjects he had equally pithy comments. On representational art, he commented: "Looking at it is almost as big a shock as seeing yourself in a mirror."

Of science versus art: "The scientist can bring the faggots but the artist brings the fire."

Of an Englishman going sketching: "He looks around first to spot a house where he can get a cup of tea."

And of education: "I would like to write a book—'So Little for the Soul! There is nothing in our education that teaches us how to read a poem or look at a picture... It is like stuffing a stocking, cramming everything down, then saying there's my education, now I can leave.'"

And having covered everything from a brief comment on the Group of Seven to one of his pet subjects, children's painting, Arthur Lismer sat down—practically in mid-sentence.

VICTORIANS REGISTER FOR ELECTION

Mammoth task of registering thousands of eligible voters for the Sept. 19 provincial election by next Tuesday faces these workers at Victoria's main registration centre at 910 Gordon street. Voters approaching counter are just a handful of the estimated 10,000 who must register soon.

Thousands of British Columbians are threatened "blitzkrieg" provincial election.

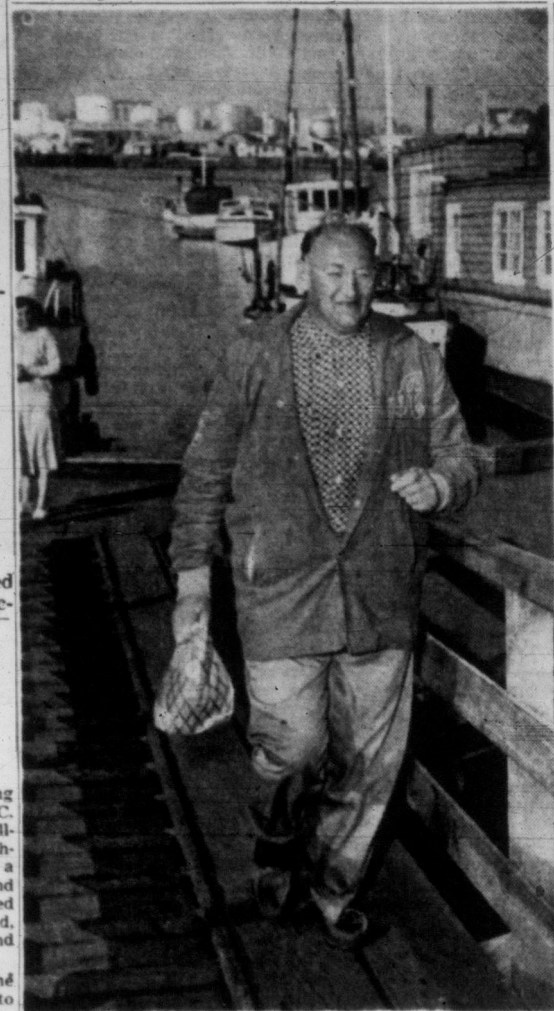

MERGED LABOR HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Delegates representing more than 65 Victoria labor unions will meet for the first time as Victoria Labor Council tonight, opening a new era of harmony in local organized labor.

Council was set up from the two former Greater Victoria labor councils established under Canadian Congress of Labor and Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which merged this year into the Canadian Labor Congress.

In the chair will be president John MacKenzie, former Council (CCL) and veteran president of Victoria Labor International Woodworkers of America unionist.

Crash Into Wall Kills Millworker

Motorcyclist Misses Curve

A 35-year-old millworker was instantly killed early today when he was hurled from his motorcycle as it crashed into a cement wall at a curve on Gorge road near Harriet.

Saanich police said Gordon Cecil Christian, 35, 725 Cowper, died sometime between 3 a.m. and 6.15 a.m. after finishing his night shift at B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

There were no witnesses to the accident and a clap of thunder during the night may have drowned out the sound of the crash, police said.

The victim, survived by his widow, Muriel, and an 11-year-old stepdaughter. The couple had been married only two years.

LOST FIRST HUSBAND

Mrs. Christian lost her first husband five years ago, police said.

Christian clocked out of the mill at 3.04 a.m. The accident was discovered at 6.25 a.m.

Police said someone living near the crash scene reported hearing a noise at about 3.15 a.m. but it was impossible to determine what time the mishap occurred.

The victim had owned the motorcycle for less than two weeks, police said.

Christian was apparently travelling west on Gorge when the machine went over to the wrong side of the road at the downhill curve, grazed a power pole, and slammed into the wall in front of the San Sebastian Auto Court.

HEAD INJURIES

His body was found lying on the sidewalk beside the wall. He died instantly from severe head injuries.

The motorcycle glanced off the wall and ran another 82 feet down the road before hitting another pole and coming to a stop in the auto court driveway.

Saanich Deputy Police Chief Bert Pearson said there have been "many" accidents at the Gorge-Harriet hill and a number of fatalities over the years. Christian's death was the ninth of the year in the Greater Victoria area resulting from traffic accidents.

An inquest is pending.

Five Motorists Fined in City For Carelessness

Five persons pleaded guilty in city police court today to careless driving and were fined up to $40.

William John Brady, HMCS Naden, was fined a total of $85 as the result of an accident on Blanshard Aug. 4 when he pulled away from the curb and hit another car.

He was fined $50 for driving without a licence and $35 for careless driving.

Malvina Fidler, 473 Marigold, was fined $25 for driving without a licence and $35 for careless driving. She collided with another car at Haultain and Fernwood Aug. 4 after failing to observe a stop sign.

A $40 fine for careless driving and one-month's suspension of his driver's licence was ordered by Magistrate A. L. Thomas for Kenneth Murray Dawson, 2837 Parkway. He was involved in a rear-end collision on Quadra Aug. 3.

Thomas Payne Rasmussen, Drake Hotel, and Roy Dunsterville Chandler, 19 Eaton, each were fined $35 for careless driving.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me how Port Angeles got its name, and when? J.M.

A.—It stems away back to the days of the Spaniards on this coast. Naturally a harbor as spacious as that enclosed by what was later named Ediz Hook attracted the attention of Spanish navigators. Appearance of a name on a chart of the harbor seems to date back to 1791, when Captain Francisco Alis called it Puerto de Senore de los Angeles.

Later Captain Galliano and Captain Valdes took a hand in whitening down the name, and finally, in 1795, the great Captain George Vancouver completed the changes by reducing it to the form it now bears, Port Angeles (port of the Angeles).

Q.—Will you please tell me the address of the department of vital statistics in England? J.P.

A.—General Register House, Somerset House, London W.C. 2, England.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I should have known better than to get into a political discussion in this space.

Yesterday some of the aims and objects of Our Very Own candidates were outlined here, in a very mild and temperate measure.

And already the storms of protest are pouring in. I am being accused of favoritism, just because I reported the plans of Our Very Own candidates (namely, Messrs. Fadd to Fudd, inclusive, and sometimes Fydd.)

I am deeply hurt by these charges. All things to all men, I always say, and it is a long worm that has no turning.

Possibly the bitterest attack on my integrity comes from a leader in the Floggelist movement.

"You are a capitalist, socialist, communist, will-of-the-ist," this gentleman snarled at me over the telephone. "You are ignoring the Floggelist movement."

The reason this cuts me to the quick—even the quicker, possibly the quickest—is that the first publicity for the Floggelist movement appeared in Between Times.

But I do not wish to be put in the position of publicizing only Our Very Own candidates, (namely Messrs. Fadd to Fudd, inclusive, and sometimes Fydd.)

To prove I am sincere—and I mean this very sincerely—I will devote the balance of this space to an exposition of Floggelism, as detailed to me by the leader in the Floggelist movement who phoned to chew me out.

This is the answer to Floggelism, who is she? in the words of the Floggelist leader.

"Floggelism is a Floggel in every pot, two Floggels in every garage, and fifty-four Floggels or fight."

"Floggelism guarantees a Floggel with your coffee during coffee breaks, which is not only a break for you, but for coffee, too."

"Under a Floggelistic system, all roads will be Floggelized, with a smooth, Floggel surface, with one exception."

"This one exception happens to be the road leading to your house, but you can't have everything, can you?"

"Floggelism is all things to all men, all men to all women, and a Floggel by any other name would smell."

"A vote for Floggelism certainly is."

Never let it be said I do not give equal space to all political parties—excuse it, movements—or that I am partisan. Or even franstran.

I trust this meets with your A-Floggel.

Walter Carter, Lincoln Hotel, entered a plea of guilty in city police court today to passing a worthless $42 cheque at a city cafe.

He was charged jointly with Robert Musgrove who pleaded not guilty Tuesday. Both were remanded to Monday.

A $200 fine or two months' jail term was imposed in city police court today on an HMCS Naden sailor who pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent.

Ronald Lee Hisslip was charged after two sailors and two girls were questioned Monday night after a stolen car crashed into a pole and a parked car at Belleville and Government.

Hisslip's commanding officer said he had no previous record and had admitted being drunk at the time of the offence.

"It is unfortunate that you should be in this predicament on Navy Day," said Magistrate A. L. Thomas.

Canadian Red Cross Society has been asked to locate Joseph Diditanow, 33, said to be working around Victoria. Anyone knowing his present whereabouts is asked to contact Red Cross House, 1046 Fort street, phone 2-3159.

Residents of the Brechin area near Nanaimo were without electric power for an hour Tuesday when a falling tree brought down all three wires leading to a substation on Departure Bay Road.

The tree was felled during land clearing operations. Repairs were completed by the B.C. Power Commission by 7.30 p.m.

Western Canada's Baha'i summer conference will be held at the Banff School of Fine Arts, Banff, Alta., Sept. 2 to 8. Members of Baha'i spiritual assemblies in Alaska, the Yukon, B.C., prairie provinces and U.S. are expected to attend. Further information may be obtained through local assembly chairman R. O. and N. McGee, 2-6433, or secretary, Mrs. N. Greenwood, 3-8349.

Thursday Meetings
Victoria Optimists: Pacific Club, luncheon at noon.
Oak Bay Kiwanis: Oak Bay Beach Hotel, dinner at 6.15 p.m.
St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society: K of P hall, 8 p.m.

Ground Observer Corps, civilian arm of the RCAF, left Chilliwack Tuesday on "Operation Caravan" to show displays of Canada's air defence system at the Pacific National Exhibition and 15 other fairs in the province.

Centres to be visited include Merritt, West Bank, Lillooet, Salmon Arm, Langley, Mission, Agassiz, Hope, Qualicum Beach, Courtenay, Alberni, Nanaimo and Ladysmith.

Winners of the weekly tournament of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club session Tuesday are as follows, in order of placing.

Lil Tattersall and Sam Duprau; Fred Hallett and Ernie Allen; Otto Leeseent and Les Stewart; James Duprau and Eric Goodwin; Ethel Cleworth and Jack Goldie; Molly Collins and Dora Duprau.

Esquimalt Approves Gorge Survey
A full report on restoration of the Gorge Waterway, with a canal from Thetis Cove to Portage Inlet "if necessary," was requested by Esquimalt Council Tuesday.

Council approved municipal engineer John Graeme's suggestion that funds be set aside to hire a "qualified waterways engineer" to study city council's Gorge waterway improvement plan.

"It's of the people talking about this plan are laymen," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele. "We should have a professional man look into it."

City council has asked support of all municipalities for the project.

PAST PRESIDENT of Oak Bay Kiwanis, Cecil C. Annett, 2650 Currie street, was elected a lieutenant-governor of Northwest District Kiwanis at a convention in Salem, Wash., Tuesday. Penetion, B.C., was recommended to the board of trustees for the 1957 convention by the 219 delegates representing 128 clubs at the convention.

25,000 Face Loss of Votes

Quick Election Won't Allow Time To Complete Work of Registration

Thousands of British Columbians are threatened "blitzkrieg" provincial election with loss of their vote in the election called Monday night by Premier Bennett.

Many believe the provincial electoral office will be unable to complete registration of voters before registrations close next Tuesday.

At least 10,000 eligible voters living in the four Greater Victoria ridings must get their names on the electoral rolls before next Tuesday evening if they want to cast ballots in the Sept. 19 election.

It is suggested that the total number of names not on the rolls could go as high as 25,000.

There is also a chance that many voters who fill out registration cards will not get on the rolls due to the short time left in which to process applications.

Premier Bennett is under fire by opposition leaders for fixing the election date at the shortest possible legal period—38 days.

The government made this possible in 1953 by securing an amendment to the Provincial Elections Act which cut the period allowable between issue of an election writ and polling day from 59 to 38 days.

SEVEN DAYS
This means that whereas voters were previously given 14 days in which to register, they now have only seven days.

It is unofficially estimated that between 100,000 and 150,000 eligible voters throughout the province are still unregistered. Electoral officials admit that it will be "difficult" to get all these people on the voters' list in time.

One of their biggest "headaches" will be arranging registration for loggers and backwoods workers who are unable to leave their jobs to register.

Thousands of such workers are involved.

Of the 79,555 Greater Victoria registered voters in 1953, only 59,818 cast ballots, and since then it is estimated that more than 5,000 new voters have taken up residence in the Victoria area.

About 650 are estimated to have reached the voting age of 19 years since 1953.

W. H. Ryan, registrar of voters, said five enumerating stations are in operation today and more will be established as quickly as possible. Between 40 and 50 enumerators will be working to get as many persons registered as possible.

Inflation Here Now, Says Banker

Inflation is here and there's no doubt whatsoever about it, T. D. Lewis, Montreal, superintendent of securities for the Bank of Montreal, said in Victoria today.

"There are definite signs of inflation in our economy now," he said, commenting on recent Bank of Canada curbs on credit.

"By making credit tight, it makes the borrower think twice before paying the new high rates," he said.

"A curbing of credit and higher interest rates is to 'spread' production and not have the economy boom 'all in one pot.'"

There is no indication that today's spiralling costs will ease in the foreseeable future, he said.

ACTS AS BRAKE
But shortened credit tended to act as a brake to this, he said.

Lightning Knocks Out Transformer

Lighting early this morning knocked out a 12,000 volt B.C. Electric transformer on Millstream road servicing the Highlands area on the heels of a 10-hour thunder, rain and lightning storm which covered southern Vancouver Island, southern portions of B.C., and the State of Washington.

Fuses were blown in the Methosin area, also due to lightning, a BCE spokesman said today.

Service crews replaced the Millstream transformer shortly after it was struck at 6 a.m. Lightning started at 9.30 and flashed sporadically until 7.29 a.m. Thunder started at 4.40 a.m. and ended at 7.48 a.m.

Thunder is unusual in this area because of weather formations here, and last night's rumblings were the first this year. Last year there were only two thunderstorms, both in July.

During the thunder-lightning period, one-tenth of an inch of rain fell, spread between 5.17 a.m. and 7.48 a.m.

The storm was caused because cool air from the Pacific brushed the area. Cloudiness will continue today and Thursday morning with the sun breaking through in the afternoon. No further rain is anticipated.

A forestry department spokesman said the general, though light, rainfall has temporarily postponed forest closure.

"It improved the forest situation, though we are still watching it closely," he said.

In the Vancouver forest district, which embraces Vancouver Island, seven small fires are burning, all under control.

Tuesday night's rain was the first since August 2.

Winds gusted up to 18 m.p.h.

Pipers Take Prize
Second prize in class "A" pipe band competition was won by Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) pipe band at the Seattle Highland Games over the weekend.

Led by Pipe Major Andrew Pollock, the band placed second in Vancouver's Seaford Highlanders.

Jaremy, who couldn't see the other side because of fog and never did take that first feeding because he didn't last long enough, stayed in the water for one hour 35 minutes and made about 1 1/2 miles.

His coach and manager, Pat Roach, said, "John swallowed too much salt water and got sick."

Jaremy said, "I knew I wasn't going to make it, so I saw no sense wasting my strength."

Jaremy started off at a brisk 64 pace while the methodical, trudgeon-stroking Sadlo started slowly at 52 and was soon 200 yards behind his partner.

But when Jaremy made his departure, Sadlo stroked on.

Water conditions, even at the start, were hopeless—so hopeless in fact that navigator Stan

Page said the only reason he was taking the swimmers out was because they insisted.

A wind, gusting to 20 miles an hour, was blowing into Sadlo's face and he was ploughing through four-foot waves. But his long-reaching stroke, even though it dropped to 36 at some points, carried him through the waves like a log.

Sadlo didn't stop for a feeding until he had been going for 3 1/2 hours and then it was a brief stop for a short drink of orange juice. At that time, he was 5 1/2 miles from the Breakwater, where they started at 12.30 and he had Ross Bay at his back, four miles back.

WOULDN'T STOP
At 4.30 Roach pulled the navigation boat, Meota, close to Sadlo and tried to convince the swimmer of the hopelessness of the conditions. However, Sadlo would not even stop to listen.

By this time the sea was so heavy that two-pacing boats were working in relays, trying to steer the swimmer and make headway by taking short shifts on the oars.

Sadlo finally came out of the water at 4.46, after four hours, 17 1/2 minutes of swimming. He was then 5 1/2 miles from the Breakwater.

Ben Laughren, local Strait challenger, plunged into the water to help get Sadlo into the boat. He was purple with cold but complained bitterly about being taken out.

On the Times Swim Chart, Jaremy came out in the square H4 and Sadlo in H6.

The party left early this morning by plane for Toronto, where they will begin training for the $26,000 Lake Ontario swim this month.

Ben Laughren, local Strait challenger, plunged into the water to help get Sadlo into the boat. He was purple with cold but complained bitterly about being taken out.

On the Times Swim Chart, Jaremy came out in the square H4 and Sadlo in H6.

The party left early this morning by plane for Toronto, where they will begin training for the $26,000 Lake Ontario swim this month.

HOPELESS
Water conditions, even at the start, were hopeless—so hopeless in fact that navigator Stan

Page said the only reason he was taking the swimmers out was because they insisted.

A wind, gusting to 20 miles an hour, was blowing into Sadlo's face and he was ploughing through four-foot waves. But his long-reaching stroke, even though it dropped to 36 at some points, carried him through the waves like a log.

Sadlo didn't stop for a feeding until he had been going for 3 1/2 hours and then it was a brief stop for a short drink of orange juice. At that time, he was 5 1/2 miles from the Breakwater, where they started at 12.30 and he had Ross Bay at his back, four miles back.

WOULDN'T STOP
At 4.30 Roach pulled the navigation boat, Meota, close to Sadlo and tried to convince the swimmer of the hopelessness of the conditions. However, Sadlo would not even stop to listen.

By this time the sea was so heavy that two-pacing boats were working in relays, trying to steer the swimmer and make headway by taking short shifts on the oars.

Sadlo finally came out of the water at 4.46, after four hours, 17 1/2 minutes of swimming. He was then 5 1/2 miles from the Breakwater.

Ben Laughren, local Strait challenger, plunged into the water to help get Sadlo into the boat. He was purple with cold but complained bitterly about being taken out.

On the Times Swim Chart, Jaremy came out in the square H4 and Sadlo in H6.

AS WE LIVE

Try Releasing Tensions
With Laughter Not Tears

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Laughter and crying are both methods of releasing pent-up emotions. One serves as well as the other, as I pointed out to the young mother who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I find myself dissolving into tears several times a day, no matter how hard I try to control myself. I get so disgusted with myself and I know my husband is disgusted with me. If I cry when we are out, he gets so embarrassed that he wants to go home. I never did this until recently and I don't know what makes me behave this way. We have four small children, all close together, and they do get on my nerves at times. I am always tired, too. Do you think that has anything to do with my crying?"—M.L.

(A)—Your being tired certainly does have something to do with your crying. In fact, that is unquestionably the major cause of it. If you were more rested and relaxed, the things that make you cry now you would doubtless overlook under more favorable conditions.

The first thing you should do is to have a physical check-up. Tell your doctor what your duties at home are, how things get on your nerves, and how you give way to tears. He may want you to take some medicine to calm your nerves until you get some rest and can build yourself up physically.

In the meantime, you can handle this problem by forcing yourself to laugh more often. It is hard to laugh, I realize, when everything seems to be going wrong and when work piles so high that the end is never in sight.

However, there is always a silver lining to even the darkest cloud and you should look for this. When the children get fussy and hard to handle, say something funny or do something to make them laugh. This will relax them just as a hearty laugh will relax you and the strained situation will then improve.

If you can make it a habit to have several hearty laughs every morning, afternoon and evening, you will be surprised to discover that you do very little crying. Your crying has been a release of the emotional tensions that have piled up within you. By releasing these tensions through laughter—and no one could complain about your laughing—there will then be few tensions left to release through crying.

Class Initiated
In Moose Lodge

Seven women were initiated at a business meeting of Victoria Chapter No. 25, Women of the Moose, in K of P Hall. The senior regent, Mrs. M. Bentham, presided and the group was named the Mary Morris class, in tribute to her services in the chapter since it was instituted 35 years ago. Initiates were Mrs. E. Emmons, Mrs. L. Matheson, Mrs. M. Villart, Mrs. Z. Watts, Mrs. P. Clevette, Mrs. I. Clevette and Mrs. W. Petty.

Announcement was made by Mooseheart chairman Mrs. P. Booth of a sewing bee this Thursday at the home of Mrs. B. Stevens, 1320 Slater Street, and a Halloween party in October. Membership chairman Mrs. P. Smith told of plans for a paper drive in which collections will be made through telephone 5-2072.

Arrangements were discussed to charter a bus on August 25 to Weir's Beach for a beach party at the home of junior regent Mrs. E. Cooper, who is spending a month there. Tickets will be available on August 23. Mooseheart Alumni chairman Mrs. K. Caffery convened the chapter night program. A buffet supper was served from a table decorated with miniature boats of all types in a Navy Day and vacation theme, set on a turquoise-toned paper cloth to represent water. The theme was completed with ar-

UN Tour an Exciting Experience
For Victoria High School Student

By KITTY DIXON

An attractive Victoria teenager "can't wait" to return to school next month. Seventeen-year-old Patricia Petrie is anxious to tell her classmates about her 35-day trip to New York on the Seventh Annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth.

Patricia, who won the expense-paid trip by placing first in an Odd Fellows' public speaking contest, on the subject, "My Community and the World," has just returned to her home on Little Saanich Mountain, where her father, Dr. R. M. Petrie, is director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. She is a student at Victoria High School.

The tour has given Patricia an over-all picture of the United Nations and its functions that will aid her in helping to organize a model UN at school, where a United Nations Club has already been formed.

Patricia's week in New York with 99 other delegates from schools across the continent included a guided tour of the ultra-modern United Nations Building, attending sessions in the building, making visits to headquarters of delegates of member nations and lunch in the delegates' dining room.

The teenagers' busy schedule was designed to include sight-seeing and relaxation, too. They were given choices of top Broadway shows, latest movies, symphony concerts and other attractions.

SEES 'FANNY'

Patricia selected the Broadway musical, "Fanny," starring Lawrence Tibbett, over "Pajama Game." "No Time for Sergeants" and a big league ball game, Brooklyn Dodgers vs. Cincinnati at Ebbets Field.

Another night she saw the famous "Rockettes" at Radio City Music Hall and still another outing took her to the new movie, "Oklahoma."

On the Sunday she went to church at St. James in Hyde Park, and sat two rows from Eleanor Roosevelt.

A three-hour boat trip around Manhattan Island was arranged for the students and they ate at Frances' Tavern, where George Washington bade farewell to his officers, December 4, 1783.

Although New York was the ultimate destination, the UN tour took its delegates on a zig-zagging bus tour of Canada and the United States, stopping at Ottawa where they saw Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and part of a session in the House of Commons and at Washington, DC, where they saw President Eisenhower.

Miss Patricia Petrie

But seeing "Old Faithful" geyser at Yellowstone National Park, crossing the "Rip Van Winkle Bridge" in the Catskill Mountains and visiting the Vanderbilt mansion in New York City were second to the knowledge Patricia gained through her experiences in the United Nations Building.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep a 5-ounce can or two of buttered almonds (the roasted and diced kind) on hand for making ice cream treats. Wonderful straight-from-the-can on plain vanilla or chocolate ice cream, or to top your favorite sundae sauce.

Cooked new peas and large dry lima beans make a flavo-some two-some heated in this sauce. Combine a can of condensed cream of chicken soup with 1/4 cup milk and a tablespoon chopped chives.

Spread thin slices of sour dough French rolls with this mixture and serve with chilled tomato juice or cocktails. Combine softened cream cheese with finely chopped bits of crisp bacon, green pepper, peeled tomato and walnuts. Season if desired.

Shovels slide more easily if rubbed generously with soap.

Service

A new pair of glasses, a lens replacement or a frame adjustment; whatever your requirements, you will find Prescription Optical service to be prompt, courteous and efficient.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Strengthen Ankles Now
For Winter Ice Skating

It may seem strange that I am writing about ice skating in the middle of the summer but you must admit that it is a cooling idea. Also, if you have trouble with weak ankles when you skate or want to learn this winter, there are exercises you could take between now and then which would be of the greatest help.

Ice skating is a wonderful sport. It is not only wonderful exercise but has an added value because it is done outdoors. It is also splendid for developing balance and grace. In the past ice skating was limited to cold climates but today practically all cities have rinks. If you live in a warm climate the zippy cool air while exercising will give you a lift.

You can learn to skate at any age but it is easier when you are young. If you learn when past early youth you should begin slowly and carefully so you won't break a bone. Actually the middle-aged woman who wishes to learn should have expert instruction. If you are younger and are going to begin this sport during the coming cold season let me give you one bit of advice. Always lean forward so that you will fall forward.

In Honor of the Bride

A bride-elect, Miss Sylvia McIntosh, was honored Monday afternoon when Mrs. W. H. Yardley, Mrs. Sam Parker and Mrs. Jamie Cameron were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the Cameron home on Moss Street. Miss McIntosh received a corsage of white carnations and heather and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Emerson Smith, received pink carnations and heather. Other guests attending the shower were Miss Muriel Smith, Mrs. G. H. Emery, Mrs. B. M. Johnson, Mrs. H. Knott, Mrs. D. P. W. Maunsell, Mrs. A. Crawford, Mrs. A. Willis, Mrs. E. J. Hunter, Mrs. J. Houston, Miss Lillian Houston, Mrs. R. Tolson, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. E. McIntyre, Mrs. H. C. Cunningham, Mrs. W. C. Werthner, Mrs. E. V. Taylor, Mrs. N. Turner, Mrs. B. Davies, Mrs. H. E. Jobbins, Mrs. Jessie Woollett, Mrs. W. H. Beutelspacher, Mrs. E. V. James, Mrs. H. Howard, Mrs. R. E. Burns and Margaret and Mrs. J. D. B. Scott.

Mrs. Charles Hamilton, the former Miss Marion Bowles, was honored recently when co-workers gathered at the Dunsmuir road home of Mrs. W. A. Senft for a miscellaneous shower. On arrival she was presented with a pink gladiolus corsage, while her mother, Mrs. W. T. Bowles, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. John Hamilton, received white gladiolus and pink carnations and red and white carnations respectively. Gifts were arranged in a silver box tied with mauve ribbon. The honor guest was also presented with an inscribed bride's cake, which was cut at the party. Others present were Mrs. Louise Hamilton, Mrs. Pat Crosby, Mrs. Florence Bowles, Mrs. Louise MacDonald, Misses Donna Owen, Judy Rolls and Alice Johnston.

Mrs. Herbert Pickup was a hostess at a trousseau tea Tuesday evening at her home on Falkland Road to honor her daughter, Miss Pat Pickup, who is to be married at the end of August.

Unitarian Service Serves Thousands of Hungry, Homeless Children in 11 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—A helping-hand organization which has offered new lives to hundreds of hungry and homeless children in 11 countries marks its 11th anniversary without speeches or fanfare, cakes or candles.

The Unitarian Service Committee headquarters here merely noted the founding date—Aug. 29, 1945—and went on planning new projects to add to its 32 existing programs in Europe and Asia.

"The USC is a tribute to the very old, the very young and the very poor," says Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, USC director and founder of the organization here immediately after the Second World War.

Surrounded by paintings, photographs, drawings, books and messages from children in countries as far apart as France and Korea, Dr. Hitschmanova told a reporter she is convinced that "Canadians are generous people."

With 11 volunteer-staffed branches across Canada, school children and grandmothers contribute funds and clothing to support children in orphanages, schools, medical centres and other projects established in less fortunate countries.

A native of Czechoslovakia who came to Canada in 1942, she says the USC would not exist without the support of those people who contribute to their church—and local charities, and still find time and funds to channel aid to other countries.

In 1945, the committee's first relief supplies went to Czechoslovakia and France. Since then, some 6,500,000 pounds of relief supplies worth more than $2,000,000 have gone to many needy corners of the world.

During its 11 years the USC has been addressed as the "Humanitarian Service Committee" quite often, said its director, with a smile of acceptance for this slight revision in its title.

But a recent letter addressed to the "Sanitarian Service Committee" wasn't so close to the mark, she chuckled.

"Human-need is our only criteria," she said, noting that the personal touch in the non-denominational organization's projects is one of its strongest appeals.

Give the Nod to Fresh Fruits And Vegetables for Good Health

TORONTO (CP)—The federal department of agriculture continually urges Canadians to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables.

Drives—such as the recent salad week—have been held for many years to stimulate Canadian interest. Sales have increased but still many persons give nutritious, low-calorie foods only an occasional nod.

The Canadian Fruit Wholesale Association says many people who do not eat fresh produce are borderline cases of malnutrition.

HIDDEN HUNGER

The hidden hunger prevails not only in the poor or unemployed but stretches across all sections of society. It includes the girl who practically stops eating to lose weight; the person who lives alone and doesn't bother to cook; the teenager who over-indulges in sodas and candy and the man who prides himself on being a meat-and-potato man and who looks on fruit and vegetable salads as "rabbit food."

Housewives can encourage proper diets by making salads attractive to the eye and pleasing to the palate. Here are some tips that will lift salads from the ordinary into the gourmet class:

1. Use color contrast and harmony. A salad must look good before people even want to eat it. Never include beets—they discolor everything they touch.
2. Aim for an appetizing flavor. There should be an equal balance of bland and highly flavored ingredients.

3. Use only the freshest, top quality greens.

4. Serve only salads that have been well chilled. After washing ingredients crisp them in the refrigerator for a couple of hours before salad-making time.

5. Cut ingredients in small enough pieces so that a knife won't be necessary to eat it.

6. Dip peeled fruit in orange juice to prevent discoloration.

7. Always peel tomatoes but never cucumbers.

8. Never stir a salad in a bowl. Tossing it prevents damage to ingredients, keeps them crisp and fluffy.

Vivacious Embassy Secretary Would Share World With Men

OTTAWA (CP)—As a diplomat, Dr. Teresa Flouret doesn't believe that it's either a man's world or a woman's world.

"It's a men and women's world," says the petite, vivacious brunette who is third secretary at the Argentine Embassy here.

Dr. Flouret proves her point by her own example. She holds a doctorate in political science, has studied international law at universities in Paris and Madrid and before coming to Canada—more than a year ago she represented her country in Spain and at the United Nations.

She speaks five languages to round out her diplomatic qualifications.

She also converses with feminine enthusiasm about shopping for clothes in different countries.

Her own philosophy about women in a reputedly man's world hinges on her belief that women can succeed as long as they don't look for special privileges and do the work required of their position.

This month she leaves Ottawa to take up a new posting with the Argentine delegation to the UN at New York.

She will take away some interesting memories.

A native of a city near Buenos Aires, she dreaded the thought of wearing snow boots during a Canadian winter, and consequently ruined numerous pairs of shoes.

Their friends suggested that rather than hating the snow she should learn to enjoy it—by learning to ski.

SOON CONVERSED

So after a day as a diplomat, Dr. Flouret donned ski equipment and took to nearby ski trails. By April she was "looking and hoping for snow even more this spring."

Her parents, who often visited in Ottawa, "probably because I'm their only daughter" have also collected some interesting memories.

Dr. Flouret says her father liked Canadian winters, and developed an attachment for hit parade tunes.

"He insisted on taking large stacks of popular recorded music back to Argentina with him," said his diplomat daughter with a chuckle.

MARRIAGE NEXT MONTH

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bell, 3066 Scott street, wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Lois Barbara, to Leading Scaman Richard Keith Storie, only son of Mrs. C. E. Storie and the late Mr. R. W. Storie of New Westminster, B.C. The wedding will take place on September 15 in Centennial United Church. Miss Bell will have as her attendants, Mrs. A. Fell, matron of honor; Miss B. E. Thomson, bridesmaid, and Miss M. Baird, junior bridesmaid. Best man will be Mr. R. Reid and ushers, Mr. R. Bell and Mr. A. E. Baird, Mr. W. H. Baird and Mr. R. W. Morley. (Photo by Campbell Studios)

Altar Guild Realizes $60

SOOKE—Approximately $60 was realized at the garden party held by the Altar Guild of Holy Trinity Church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Paddon of Sooke. Out-of-town visitors were among those who patronized the stalls of homecooking, needlework, candy and cut flowers, and enjoyed games of darts, quills, and clock-golf in the garden of "Thalassa."

Mrs. A. P. Llewellyn, president of the guild, welcomed guests. Members in charge of tea were Mrs. F. L. Paddon, Mrs. E. L. Nixon, Mrs. James Law, Mrs. Stanley Rear and Miss Perry. Mrs. Jack Essery, Mrs. Roy Montgomery, Mrs. Jack Keating, Mrs. G. G. Aitkin and Miss Mary Llewellyn assisted with arrangements and Mrs. W. C. Brooks was in charge of receipts.

COSMETICS REACH INDIA

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—More Indian women are using cosmetics.

Until recently, Hindu elders frowned upon the use of lipstick, rouge, powder, and creams. Now they no longer object.

Beauty parlors, once frequented only by foreigners, now cater mostly to Indian women. The number of parlors in the main Indian cities has more than doubled.

Dress For the Occasion

The gal who wore a sailor hat that must have been three feet across; to the airport, deserved what she got, which was a lost hat.

The woman who wore her best chiffon when she had a mother and three children to tea also deserved what she got, which was a big spot on the lap.

A wife who wore white shorts and a white middie blouse while dyeing her husband's corduroy shirt now wears navy blue shorts and shirt, and she, too, deserved her fate.

Each garment in a woman's wardrobe should serve specific purposes and the owner should know what they are in advance.

Once an event is arranged, a woman ought to know almost automatically which of her garments will be suitable to it.

A wool jersey dress should be eliminated in advance for wearing to a home where there is a long-haired white dog that sheds. A dress with a full skirt will surely be awkward to handle while meeting friends at the airport. A dress with a tight skirt will be difficult while running for a close train connection.

The clothes in her closet should be as known to a woman as the food tastes of her family. She should know without thinking their strong points (needs no pressing, won't hike up, comfortable for driving, has good pockets for marketing) and their weak points (too sheer to go without a strapless bra, spots easily).

And if there is no garment for some occasion that arises frequently, she ought to buy one.

King-size summer avocados are in markets. Instead of familiar pear shape of the winter fruit, the summer avocados may be round and nubby with thick, dark skins.

ONLY THE LATEST

LONDON (CP)—Thieves who broke into a west end fashion house were, evidently after the best. They took only the latest styles in summer clothes.

STATE-SYSTEM SYLLABUS FOUND WANTING

Private Schools Favored By Canadians in Britain

By Ken Methelal

Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—A Canadian air force sergeant stationed in London pays more than $100 or $200 a year to send his six-year-old son to school in Britain.

Sgt. Ray Crabbe of Victoria is one of scores of Canadian parents who have turned their backs on Britain's free state-school system in favor of private schools.

"I want my son to have a good education, one equal to what he would receive in Canada," says Crabbe, who is attached to the Canadian joint staff. "I am convinced the private schools give him a better chance than the state schools."

LIKES ATTENTION

Like some 500,000 fee-paying British parents, Crabbe likes the individual attention his son receives at a private school. More important, the private school syllabus appears to be "more in phase" with Canadian schools.

"And that will be an important factor when we return to Canada."

Most Canadians in Britain appear to feel the same way. A spokesman at Canadian joint staff says "most of our men, both officers and other ranks, send their children to private schools."

The same situation prevails among Canadians employed at Canada House, the offices of provincial agents-general and British branches of Canadian business firms.

ODD SYSTEM

Major problem for both Canadian and British parents is the United Kingdom's two-stream educational system.

At about age 11 years British children sit for examinations which decide whether they will go to a secondary grammar school or a secondary, modern school.

The former, catering to about 20 per cent of the 6,750,000 state-school students, compare favorably with Canadian high schools. But the secondary modern schools are designed to give only a general education, with heavy emphasis on technical subjects and little or no instruction in the sciences and foreign languages. Most secondary modern pupils leave school at 15.

Some primary schools begin "streaming" pupils as early as age seven with only the brightest students brought up to a standard that gives them any real chance of qualifying for a grammar school place.

ESTABLISH OWN

The Canadian defence department, which had hoped to avoid establishing a school in Britain for the children of servicemen, now is reconsidering the matter.

"British grammar schools are excellent," says one department official. "But we certainly want more than 20 per cent of our youngsters to obtain that standard of education."

Unless special arrangements are made to give additional grammar school places to Canadian servicemen's children, Canada will probably build her own school near the RCAF base at Langar in Nottinghamshire in exactly the same way as similar schools have been built for RCAF and army personnel on the continent. The school would be staffed by Canadian teachers and use a curriculum based on that in use in Canadian schools.

Eddie May of Winnipeg, general manager for Trans-Canada Air Lines in London, describes private school fees as "a heavy but necessary burden on the family budget."

EXPENSIVE

Fees for a good private school in secondary grammar school standard range from £280 ($780) to £400 ($1,200) a year. A boarder student at a good preparatory school pays about £200 a year and a day student about £72.

School uniforms and other special equipment leave little change out of £100.

Canadian servicemen in Britain are allowed about £43 a year to help defray such education costs and a number of Canadian business firms have similar allowances.

"It doesn't cover the full cost by any means, but it is a tremendous help," says Crabbe.

May, with one boy in school and another ready to start in September, says "school fees can become a major problem unless financial assistance is given."

PAY FROM START

"In Canada a family can plan ahead to provide a university education for children if desired. A savings plan can be instituted while the children receive their early education without charge. Here you pay right from the start."

Some Canadians, however, do find satisfactory state schools. One is Cpl. Tom Connolly of Winnipeg, serving with the RCAF section of CJS in London.

"My child goes to a church school that comes under London county council and I have no fees to pay. Fortunately the education standard of the school is high and I am well-satisfied."

"I guess I'm just lucky. It is a state school run on private school lines."

Early Warning Of Cyclones Experts' Aim

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Weathermen are hoping to take the surprise out of cyclones which bear down on Australia from the equator each year.

"You cannot stop a cyclone forming," said the Commonwealth weather research superintendent, W. J. Gibbs, "but, if we can get early word of its hatching, we can prepare for it, save so many lives and prevent some of the damage."

Australian meteorologists hope to learn much from an international symposium on tropical cyclones to be held in Brisbane in December. World authorities on cyclones, typhoons and hurricanes will present the results of overseas research.

"One of the greatest cyclone hazards in Australia seems to be flying roofing iron, which the wind whirls along with terrific force," said Gibbs. "If people know a cyclone is going to strike their locality, they can make sure they are not caught out in it."

Comedians Hired

To Boost Attendance

SAN FRANCISCO (BUP)—In an effort to boost attendance, the seventh-place San Francisco Seals have contracted for the services of comedians Abbott and Costello.

The famed funnymen will put on their "who's on first" act between games of the double-header with the Vancouver Mounties Sunday.

Coast League Club May Tour Japan

PORTLAND (AP)—Negotiations are "almost complete" for a Pacific Coast League exhibition tour of Japan following the 1957 season, league president Leslie W. O'Connor said Monday.

O'Connor, here for a summer meeting of league directors, said that either next season's pennant winner or an all-star team is expected to tour Japan for games with professional teams there.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Marylebone Cricket Club Tuesday night announced the names of 13 players who will tour South Africa later this year. Three more will be named later.

The 13 were: Peter May, Surrey; Doug Insole, Essex; Trevor Bailey, Essex; Colin Cowdrey, Kent; Godfrey Evans, Kent; Jim Laker, Surrey; Peter Loader, Surrey; Tony Lock, Surrey; Alan Oakman, Surrey; Peter Richardson, Worcestershire; Bryan Statham, Lancashire; Frank Tyson, Northamptonshire; and John Wardle, Yorkshire.

Eisenhower Names New Envoy to Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday chose a new ambassador to Egypt, career diplomat Raymond A. Hare, on the eve of London talks seeking a peaceful solution to the Suez Canal crisis. Hare has filled other assignments in Cairo in the past. His recess appointment to Egypt means the selection is subject to confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January. Hare succeeds Henry A. Byroade, who has been reassigned to South Africa.

Hooky No Problem in Yukon; North Children Love School

LUCKNOW, Ont. (CP)—Playing hooky is practically unknown among school children at the isolated Yukon community of Watson Lake.

"The children there all love school; they have little else to do," says Margaret Salkeld of this Bruce County village, who is returning to teach in the Yukon.

Miss Salkeld applied for a job in the Yukon when she "got tired of sitting in the same spot," and decided to start wandering.

She was the only passenger to step from the plane which flew her into Watson Lake, mile 633 on the Alaska Highway. She was the community's first teacher and found the school building not yet finished, and no school books.

REALLY COLD

Books arrived two weeks later and she started classes for the 18 pupils in an army canteen. Later she moved into the new log school, which included a modern apartment for her.

Dress for the teacher in winter temperatures which dropped to 62 below zero were ski slacks and a parka.

Now, after a year's teaching in a Montreal school, Miss Salkeld has decided to return to the Yukon.

"Despite their rough and ready attitude these people really appreciate what you can do. They don't make great demands on you and they let you live your own life. I'm going back," says Miss Salkeld.

STALIN ENDED HER EXILE

Newsman's Russ Wife Stars in U.S. Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Twentieth Century-Fox studio says a former Russian ballerina once exiled to Siberia for being in love with an American newspaper man has been cast in the role of a White Russian refugee in 20th Century-Fox's Anastasia.

For 11 years Tamara Gilmore tried to get out of her native country with her husband, Eddy Gilmore, then chief of the Associated Press bureau in Moscow. But it wasn't until the death of Stalin in 1953, that she was permitted to leave.

Now living in London, where Gilmore is stationed with AP, she plans to resume a stage and the atypical career that began in Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre Ballet School.

Girlie Magazines Boycotted By Roman Catholic Newsboys

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—The "we won't handle muck" campaign of Roman Catholic newsboys has spurred demands for a government crackdown on girlie magazines.

It is a boycott by pupils 9 to 12 years old at Catholic schools in Melbourne against 21 Australian publications they deem unfit to read. The boys refuse to distribute them.

The boycott was launched in early June by 80 pupils at the Christian Brothers' St. Mary's school in West Melbourne. Since then about 350 other Catholic newsboys have joined it.

The magazines still are on sale at newsstands and are peddled by non-Catholic boys.

CIRCULATION DROPS

Publishers won't talk about the effect of the boycott on sales, but it is generally conceded circulation has dropped. The publishers obviously are worried that the campaign may spread to other cities.

Other religious denominations have expressed interest in the boycott. There is talk that the Catholic hierarchy of Victoria will sponsor the enlargement of the movement throughout Victoria, and that it may eventually be extended through all six of Australia's states.

Melbourne's street trading licences board has recommended that the Victoria government forbid distributors to ask youths to sell the undress publications.

The magazines are all published in Australia but many use material obtained from the United States and Britain. Brother Butler, principal of St. Mary's, says the most objectionable material is aimed at Australia on microfilm to thwart customs inspection. Airmail letters generally are not opened by customs inspectors.

"The boys are running this show themselves and apparently meeting with some success," Brother Butler said. "The boys should be protected from this type of pornographic stuff. Boys should not be asked to handle it."

Shipbuilding Boom Hits Japan Yards

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Liberian-flag, Greek-owned ship National Prestige arrived in Vancouver recently.

She is one of many Japanese-made ships to arrive in this Pacific port as Japanese shipbuilding is booming.

Ships like the National Prestige, a bulk carrier with engines aft, can be delivered from Japan six months after the order is placed, while European shipyards are booked ahead for delivery in several years' time.

The National Prestige is the first of five ships built for National Shipping and Trading Corp. of New York. She has two sisters being completed, and two larger vessels have been ordered — of about 19,000 tons deadweight.

The National Prestige is designed for coal and ore cargoes, with utmost economy in loading. Lloyd's register of shipbuilding returns reflect Japanese activity for the last quarter. Japan led the world in launchings—322,704 gross tons, compared with 306,653 tons for Great Britain and 288,207 tons for Germany.

The future looks bright for the yards in Japan. During the same quarter she laid down 447,292 gross tons compared with 328,787 by Germany and 277,108 tons by Great Britain, taking third place for the first time in history.

Knox Expected To Join Ti-Cats

HAMILTON (CP)—Jake Gaudaur, president and general manager of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said Tuesday he expects quarterback Ronnie Knox to arrive here today or Thursday to sign a contract with the Big Four football club.

Gaudaur said that Knox, one of the top players on the University of California at Los Angeles team last season, informed him by telephone that he has been given permission to play football by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the movie company.

Knox, a fledgling actor, is under contract to MGM.

Mates Free Trapped Miner By Cutting Off His Arm

(The Canadian Press)
SALMO—A 20-year-old miner had his arm amputated by fellow workers Tuesday so he could be freed from a fall of rocks which had pinned him in a shaft at the Emerald mine in the Kootenay district.

The injured man, Aden Tetz, was taken 30 miles to hospital in Nelson, where he was given blood transfusions and had additional surgery performed. He also suffered a broken thigh and crushed foot.

His condition was reported as satisfactory early today.

POLIO HITS TWO

CHILLIWACK — Two Chilliwack children stricken with poliomyelitis were reported "well on the road to recovery" Tuesday by Dr. D. L. Whitbread, health unit director. The cases are non-paralytic. The children are aged 11 and 13.

26th TRAFFIC FATALITY

VANCOUVER — An all-out war on traffic violators on city streets was grimly declared by traffic superintendent Ralph Booth, as Vancouver Tuesday recorded its 26th traffic fatality of the year—Mrs. Isobel Johns, 43, who died of injuries received when she was hit by a truck July 30. Police charged truck driver Danny Maarsman, 21, with failing to give a pedestrian the right of way.

NORTHERN BONUS ASKED

PRINCE RUPERT — City Council will ask the provincial government to pay an additional $15 cost-of-living bonus to city welfare cases to match the amount the government pays its own employees here.

The government recognizes that costs are higher here by paying a northern differential to employees and should extend the same privilege to less fortunate individuals," Ald. Lester said.

UNCONSCIOUS 13 DAYS

CRANBROOK — Gordon Davidson, 16, unconscious in hospital here for the last 13 days, continued in fair condition Tuesday. He suffered head injuries Aug. 2 when a car slammed into a herd of horses.

LOGGER FOUND DEAD

PRINCE GEORGE — The body of Alf Malm, 18-year-old millworker, was found Tuesday with a bullet wound in the head. The discovery was made 130 yards from his home by his brother George, 16.

Alfon had been missing since Sunday when he set out alone on a cougar-hunting trip.

MORE MOVING TO U.S.

VANCOUVER — Emigration to the United States from British Columbia and the Yukon has increased 2 per cent in the last year, officials of the U.S. consulate here said Tuesday. There were 2,620 emigration visas issued here for the first six months of this year, compared with 2,090 for the comparable period of 1955 and 2,323 for the last half of 1955.

OPR AGENT DIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Funeral was held Tuesday for Charles Millard, retired Canadian Pacific Railway ticket agent here, who died Saturday at the age of 84.

GAGLARDI ON TOUR

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Continuing his tour of British Columbia highways, Minister P. A. Gagliardi flew to the Queen Charlotte Islands from here Tuesday. He inspected the island's highways and made brief stops at Queen Charlotte

City, Port Clements and Massett. He was to resume his province-wide tour today with visits to Terrace, Kitimat and Powell River.

ATLANTIC RAFTSMEN NEARING EPIC'S END

HALIFAX (BUP)—The 30-foot log raft L'Egare II and its three French crew members have been sighted nearing the end of a lonely Atlantic crossing which began at Halifax May 24.

A Halifax teacher, Barbara Walker, said she and other passengers of the liner Liberté saw and spoke to the three men on July 30 after they were 2½ days out of Southampton, England.

FEW CIVIL CEREMONIES

Church Marriages Favored by Most

By TONY DICKASON

Despite today's commercialism of almost everything, folks still like to be married in church—not in a registrar's office. Statistics prove this.

In 1955 there were 736 marriages performed in Greater Victoria, of which only 94 were civil, or non-religious, marriages.

This information comes from the vital statistics office of the provincial government, where four marriage commissioners await persons who wish to be married by a civil ceremony. It takes 20 minutes.

Throughout B.C. there are about 150 marriage commissioners, appointed by order-in-council. There are two in Vancouver.

Cost is $7.50, and no licence is needed for the civil ceremony. For marriage by clergy, the licence fee is $3, and the licences may be obtained only from the "vital stats" offices.

NO JUDGES

Contrary to popular impression, gained probably from United States movies and books, marriages may not be performed in B.C. by justices of the peace, or even by judges.

Captains of "properly constituted" ships may marry couples if the vessel is outside territorial waters.

But a department spokesman said it was "extremely doubtful" if the captain of a sizeable fish boat would be so empowered.

Most people who utilize the civil ceremony do so because of religious differences, such as when one party is divorced and can't remarry in his or her own church.

Couples, however, can't just walk in and tie the nuptial knot, although provisions are allowed for emergency cases—a soldier going overseas, for instance.

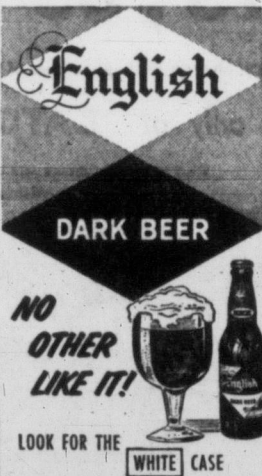

A couple could apply today, but couldn't marry until next Tuesday. This is because the law provides there must be three clear waiting days between application and marriage. The office is closed Saturday and Sunday—so, Tuesday it is.

The same three-day waiting period is enforced with marriage licences needed for religious ceremonies, unless banns are read, when no licence is required.

The marriage commissioners put on no garden party performances. Marriages must be performed in the offices, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. "within open doors," to give the public a chance to troop in if desired.

There's no Biblical reference made in the civil ceremony; it's strictly utilitarian.

The law is that banns need be read only twice in churches to eliminate the licence need, but most churches where banns are read do so on three following Sundays.

600 Rejected For Jury Duty In Brink's Trial

BOSTON (UP)—The prosecution today held little hope of breaking through the defence siege around the Brink's trial jury box.

Not a single juror has been seated in the trial of eight defendants charged with looting $1,219,000 in the greatest U.S. cash holdup.

Defence challenges Tuesday sent 30 more prospective jurors home. Nearly 600 persons so far have been called and rejected through court dismissals or challenges.

Harriman Bid Fails

Key States Rebuff Truman, Swing Votes to Adlai

CHICAGO (UP)—Gov. the Democratic presidential

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Folks!
We discovered Gus Ryder's secret yesterday, in spite of him. We all knew Gus was feeling a little out of sorts before the swim and since that time but we thought it was just tension and disappointment.

But yesterday, Gus had to give in and call Dr. Wride. It was only then that we found that Gus has been suffering from a wicked boil on his shoulder.

He had it before the swim but he didn't want to make a fuss about it in the middle of all the other excitement and he must have suffered a lot of pain out on the boat.

It got so bad he had to stay in bed all day yesterday but Dr. Wride gave him some medicine to clear up the pain and Gus got up for breakfast with the rest of us this morning.

I am on the wounded list, too, with Gus. The night after the swim, I bit a big chunk out of my tongue while I was sleeping and it is still sore.

Yesterday was one of the most enjoyable days I have spent in Victoria. All I did was eat and loaf around with no swimming.

We went down to the Breakwater to see John Jeremy and Bill Sadlo take off and then we went to the Poodle Dog Cafe for lunch. I had a mixed grill which included sausages that melted in my mouth.

In the afternoon we went to the movies—the "Eddie Duchin Story"—and then back to the Old Charming Inn for dinner. I had eaten so much lunch that I just picked at supper.

Brenda Gets Gifts, Cash For Lake Swim

TORONTO (CP)—Admirers have heaped more than $2,250 in cash and gifts worth several hundred dollars more on marathon swimmer Brenda Fisher who Monday broke Marilyn Bell's record for crossing Lake Ontario.

Brenda's biggest cash gift was $1,000 from an anonymous donor. Brenda's gifts include an automatic gas hot-water heater; a year's supply of shampoo; a silver-plate service for six; two year's year's supply of soap, candles and sponges; a half-dozen blouses; a chrome electric kettle; a year's supply of nylon stockings; free meals for the balance of the year at a restaurant; an orchid weekly for six months; a complete set of make-up and a hairstyle; a four-fur neckpiece; free hairdos for six months; a custom-tailored suit, and a male budgie bird.

B.C. Ships Collide
VANCOUVER (BUP)—Union Steamships of Vancouver said today that its 1,800-ton tourist cruise ship Commodore will be out of service for one week after suffering heavy damage in a collision Monday.

The Commodore collided with the 137-foot tug Mogul of Egg Island in Queen Charlotte Sound during a dense fog.

Averell Harriman's bid for nomination collapsed today

The New York governor's campaign managers privately admitted that Adlai Stevenson "apparently has enough votes" to win the nomination. Harriman, however, continued to go through the motions of trying to line up additional delegates.

Harriman's aides said the continuing attempts by former president Truman to salvage the governor's bid were doomed to failure and that "we must now face the fact that Stevenson has a substantial vote."

WON'T WITHDRAW

Harriman's headquarters, however, denied reports the New Yorker planned to withdraw from the race.

It was learned from a reliable source that the governor's strategy from here out would depend on how Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and other "favorite son" candidates handle their delegates. Some of these favorite sons already were breaking to Stevenson, practically sewing up the nomination for the Illinois governor.

Latest tabulation shows Stevenson with 591 votes—less than 100 fewer than the 686½ he needs to win the nomination.

About the only thing that could ruin him now would be for the convention to get into a party-splitting row over civil rights.

Stevenson, already odds-on favorite to get the nomination, drove toward a first-ballot victory by cracking northern state delegations whose votes had been tied to favorite sons—first Michigan, then New Jersey.

SOUTH SATISFIED

Meanwhile, the platform-writers came out with a racial rights plank that they were reasonably sure Southern delegations would swallow.

Many Southern delegations, inclined toward Stevenson, have been hanging on to their votes until the platform issue is settled.

The Stevenson drive spurred early today when Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan released his 44-vote state delegation with a proposal that other wait-and-see delegations follow suit. A caucus poll indicated Stevenson will get at least 32½ of Michigan's votes on the first ballot.

NONE FOR HARRIMAN

Before mid-day Gov. Robert B. Meyner announced that New Jersey will cast all of its 36 votes for Stevenson on ballot No. 1 Thursday night.

Harriman had banked on a few votes from northern New Jersey.

The proposed civil rights plank, which will go to the convention along with the rest of the 1956 campaign platform tonight, was a compromise laboriously designed to foster party harmony.

COURT BACKED

The proposed plank would affirm authority of the Supreme Court to rule on segregation but would reject use of force to carry out its order that white and negro children be educated together in public schools. It also would pledge the party to work for education of all American children "without discrimination" as to race.

Key southerners described the plank as not necessarily satisfactory to them but "acceptable."

So safe did Stevenson's lead look in the third day of the convention that the vice-presidential nomination began to take on new interest.

'PIPELINE' PARLIAMENT PROROGUES

Traffic Snarl Follows Parade

By MONTE ROBERTS

Any doubts that Victoria is a "navy town" are being dispelled today as mounting action at sea and on shore brings the Pacific Command to the people.

It's Navy Day—a bigger one, in number of naval personnel and number of civilian spectators—than ever before.

Starting with a giant parade which mixed precision marching and stirring music with good-natured clowning, Navy Day will continue until midnight or later, ending with a street dance at Beacon Hill Park.

The parade, which stepped off at 10 a.m., attracted spectators three deep along both sides of the route, from Pendray and Belleville, along Government, Yates, Douglas, Fisgard, Blanshard, back to Douglas and then to Beacon Hill Park.

Traffic jams which threatened to set a new record for Victoria started to form immediately after the parade. By noon, cars headed for the park were bumper to bumper from Superior to the park along Douglas, out Government and Cook streets.

TRAFFIC CRAWLS

All available police were in action trying to unsnarl the crawling traffic.

The parade itself was a surprise in more ways than one. Instead of the usual concentration on precision marching and stirring band music, a leavening of humor was in evidence in many of the floats.

And it was a surprise, too, to many spectators who thought they had seen it all when they had seen only half.

One of the floats broke down, causing a 20-minute break in the parade, sending scores on their way convinced it was all over.

The parade started in traditional fashion, with color guard, ships' bands, and ramrod-straight marching divisions.

But the floats were different. Models of commissioned ships in the Pacific Command were followed by an entry from the Naden CPOs and POs' mess, illustrating the ideal sailor's life—a matelot reclined at ease on a rose-colored cloud as lovely ladies from South Seas and Oriental nations formed an honor court.

RCAF FLOAT

The RCAF float in its lick at the navy with a float showing a tar ensconced comfortably in a cask of rum, happily blowing bubbles.

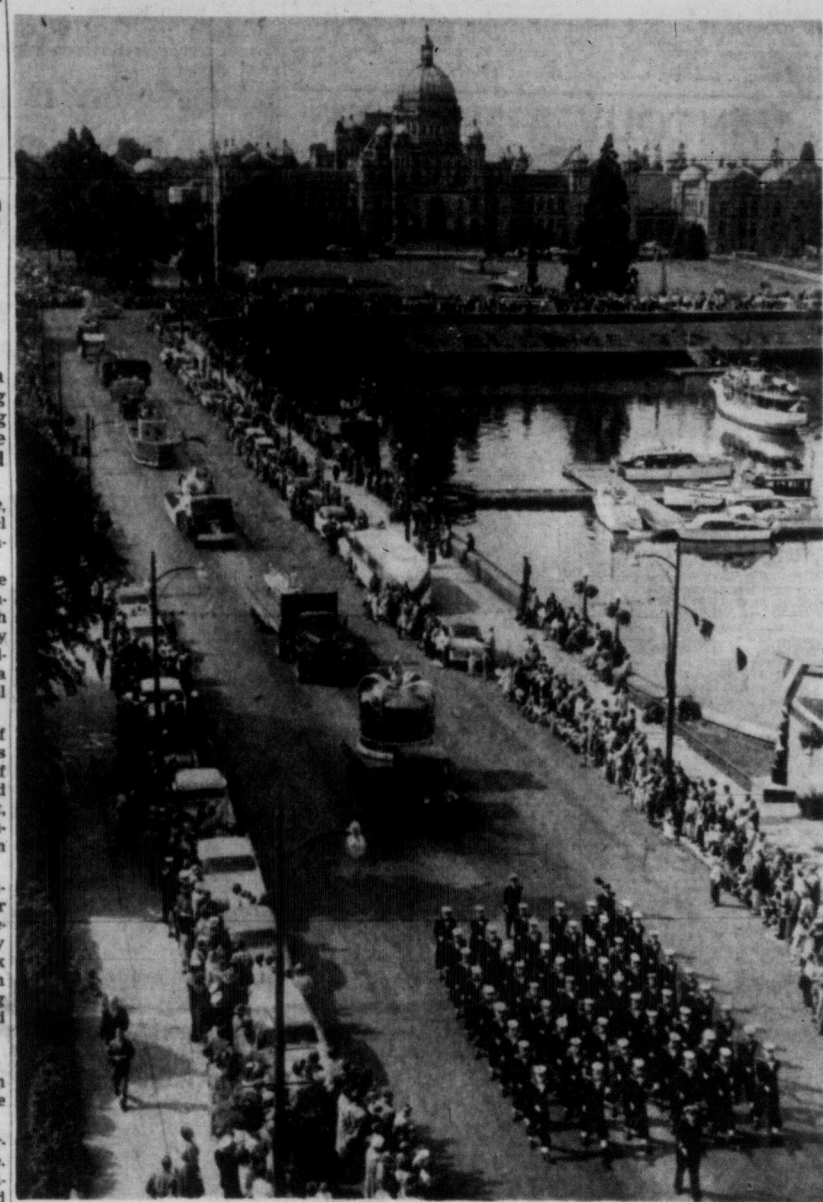

The strait swim craze was lampooned with a float depicting the "Chat Ham Chief" with an announcer croaking "He's been in the water 17 years and stroking—strongly—water temperature is 70 below zero."

As the parade broke up, a mass assault on Ogden Point Docks was carried out by nearly 2,000 boys who poured aboard navy ships moored there to take off on a two-hour cruise.

This is the first year the navy has taken youngsters to sea, and a certain amount of grumbling was heard from envious parents as their boys strode proudly aboard.

Just prior to sailing time, at 11:45 a.m., each of the 10 ships was aswarm with eager youngsters. Some had to be restrained from climbing the rigging, but that was about the only restriction.

Nasser Ready To Take Advice

LONDON (UP)—Egypt suddenly decided today to send a top-level "observer" to tomorrow's 22-nation Suez conference. The sharp about-face was disclosed on the eve of the Big Three-sponsored talks which Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser rejected so bluntly on Sunday. Nasser ordered his political director, Wing Commander Ali Sabri, to fly to London Thursday.

LONDON (AP)—Pakistan's foreign minister said today President Nasser of Egypt told him he would agree to maritime nations advising on Suez Canal operations but insisted "it is the sovereign right of Egypt to run the canal."

Foreign Minister Hamidul Huq Choudhry, arriving for the Suez Canal conference from talks with Nasser, said the Egyptian president is ready to enter into a covenant with all nations who signed the 1888 Convention guaranteeing freedom of navigation in the canal.

Choudhry told reporters at the airport: "The Egyptian president wants a peaceful and happy solution to the problem. He is not adverse to the setting up of a body representing the users of the canal to advise the organization which he has set up to manage and administer it. He still believes it is the sovereign right of Egypt to run the canal."

Choudhry's airport statement came as the Big Four foreign ministers plunged into an intensive series of separate meetings to discuss their program at the conference starting here Thursday at 11 a.m. (3 a.m. PDT).

FITS BAGHDAD REPORT
The Pakistan foreign minister's statement also fits in with a report from Baghdad that Egypt has asked Iraq, the only Arab country that is a member of the Western Baghdad Pact, to mediate the Suez dispute with Britain.

Opposition to Open Issue Despite Delay in Courts

Political opponents of Premier Bennett's Social Credit government vowed today they will force the famous Sommers-Sturdy case on to the hustings as an election issue, despite the fact the slander suit involved is now before the courts.

They said they will make the accusations of corruption involved in the suit a major issue although Premier Bennett says he will not discuss it in public because it is a sub judice.

Legal sources and court authorities told the Times today the slander suit cannot possibly come to trial until after the election. The pleadings have not been completed, and one source said Sept. 21, two days after polling, would be the earliest it could possibly be heard.

Liberal leader Arthur Laing, CCF leader Robert Strachan and Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson stated today that they will take the issue to the electorate despite Premier Bennett's refusal to discuss the matter.

"I intend to use the Sturdy statement of defence," Mr. Finlayson said.

on grounds that the Sloan inquiry's terms of reference were not wide enough.

R. E. Sommers, then minister of lands and forests, filed suit against Sturdy, claiming damages for alleged slander in the lawyer's statement before the Sloan commission.

Then, on February 27, Mr. Sommers resigned his cabinet post on the floor of the Legislature in one of B.C.'s greatest political sensations. He said he intended to devote his time to clearing his name. He retained his seat as MLA for Rossland-Trail.

His resignation precipitated the famous all-night battle in the House when opposition members blasted the government through the small hours of the morning in a demand for a royal commission of investigation.

Mr. Sturdy then went before the royal commissioner, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, seeking to have his "body of evidence" heard in public. He was refused.

Premier 'Afraid,' Opponents Claim
"If there is corruption involved in this case it must be rooted out," Liberal leader Arthur Laing said today. "The public is entitled to know if this government is sound. The premier is obviously afraid of something."

CCF leader Robert Strachan said the case will be a major issue in the CCF campaign.

"The government must be honest with the public in this matter. Serious charges have been made and they demand an answer. To call an election before these charges are heard is an evasion of the issue."

"The premier," Mr. Strachan said, "is afraid the public will find out the truth about the Sommers affair and will conclude that he cannot control the Social Credit rank and file."

Harold Thayer, provincial secretary of the CCF, referred to the five-month RCMP investigation of the case as "a secret inquiry, a star chamber."

"The interests of good government demand that the case be raised on the hustings," Mr. Thayer said. "The public is entitled to know the truth."

Deane Finlayson said the Progressive Conservative party would make the case a leading election issue and added:

"The Sturdy statement must be brought into the election campaign. An election is in my opinion a justification for waiving the technicality of making

SAILS 140 FEET UP

Crowd Chilled by Flights Of 42-Year-Old Kite

KELOWNA — Sensation of the recent regatta here was the daring performance of kite man George Quinn, 42-year-old carpenter from Everett, Wash.

Spectators at the water sports had chills run down their backs at the sight of Quinn floating past at a height of around 140 feet supported by a few odd bits of spruce and canvas.

Quinn first gets going on one water-ski, two would make for excess weight once he's airborne, behind a motorboat with a 150-foot towline. At a given signal, the boat driver guns his motor. Quinn pushes against the water with his ski and in a matter of seconds he's flying.

Once he's up there it's just a matter of manoeuvring to keep himself in the air. When he's ready to come down he shakes his head, the boat driver slows down and Quinn skims gracefully back to the water on his one ski.

The kite Quinn uses weighs 40 pounds and is shaped exactly like a kite with two crossarms instead of one. The main stave is 12 feet 6 inches long, the crossarms nine and six feet, respectively. A little canvas, some airplane cable and turnbuckles complete the kit.

Quinn needs a takeoff speed of 28 miles an hour.

Ship Explosion In Dockyard Injures Nine

LAUSON, Que. (CP) — Nine workmen were injured Tuesday in an explosion aboard the 2,338-ton tanker Irvinglake. The tanker, damaged when she ran aground in the St. Lawrence River off Quebec a week ago, is in drydock for repairs. The injured were taken to hospital at nearby Levis, suffering from burns to the hands and face.

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep, speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas, helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually vanishes into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for InfraRUB. Only $1.39 a large tube. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatism pains or your money back.

Squire Helps Loggers To Register

Central Saanich has been seeking payments from the department of Indian affairs for policing and providing fire protection to Indian reserves within the municipality, but without success.

Council learned Tuesday a $1,200 grant originally given has been discontinued.

The municipality indicated it might "get tough" if the federal government persisted in refusal to pay for the coverage.

Suggestion by council: Notify the RCMP when trouble breaks out on the reserve. In the case of fire, it was indicated, protection would be guaranteed as in the past.

A rebate of $40 in lieu of taxes will be allowed Brentwood Women's Institute on West Saanich Road property.

The institute pointed out in a letter to council that it was a non-profit organization and asked for a tax reduction on that basis.

It was disclosed the tax originally was $20, but new assessment has brought this figure to $60. The rebate applies only to the current tax year.

It will be up to former reeve Sydney Pickles to make the next move in the contentious number one fire truck issue. Mr. Pickles has threatened legal action to recover the truck, which he claims to be his property.

Council takes the view everything legally possible has been done to bring about an amicable settlement.

Letters read before council from Mr. Pickles and Green and Howard, a legal firm, were ordered to be received and filed. The firm ruled Mr. Pickles has so far not advanced any legal title to the vehicle.

Coun. John Windsor's suggestion that a committee be formed to draft a library plebiscite to be presented to ratepayers in December was adopted.

Road Hookup Asked Alberni-Cumberland

PORT ALBERNI—Port Alberni District Chamber of Commerce is forwarding a resolution to Highway Minister Gagliardi asking for the completion of a road between the Alberni and Cumberland on the east coast of Vancouver Island.

Arnold, McGillivray classed the road as of prime importance to the Alberni Valley.

"The completion of Beaver Creek Road, along the valley floor to Cumberland, would provide a circular route for tourists and increase tourist trade at least 60 per cent," he said. "But more than that, it would enable the farm producing community of the Comox Valley to find easy markets in the industrial Alberni Valley."

Members of the local Social Credit Constituency Association reported that Mr. Gagliardi has already promised location survey this winter.

The proposed road would cut the distance between Alberni and the Courtenay-Comox area by 40 miles and provide the Alberni with an important secondary road link over the Beaufort Mountains.

VICTORIANS REGISTER FOR ELECTION

Mammoth task of registering thousands of eligible voters for the Sept. 19 provincial election by next Tuesday faces these workers at Victoria's main registration centre at 910 Gordon street. Voters approaching counter are just a handful of the estimated 10,000 who must register soon.

Thousands of British Columbians are threatened "blitzkrieg" provincial election.

MERGED LABOR HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Delegates representing more than 65 Victoria labor unions will meet for the first time as Victoria Labor Council tonight, opening a new era of harmony in local organized labor.

Council was set up from the two former Greater Victoria labor councils established under Canadian Congress of Labor and Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which merged this year into the Canadian Labor Congress.

In the chair will be president John MacKenzie, former president of Victoria Labor Council (CCL) and veteran International Woodworkers of America unionist.

Crash Into Wall Kills Millworker

Motorcyclist Misses Curve

A 35-year-old millworker was instantly killed early today when he was hurled from his motorcycle as it crashed into a cement wall at a curve on Gorge road near Harriet.

Saanich police said Gordon Cecil Christian, 35, 725 Cowper, died sometime between 3 a.m. and 6.15 a.m. after finishing his night shift at B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

There were no witnesses to the accident and a clap of thunder during the night may have drowned out the sound of the crash, police said.

The victim survived by his widow, Muriel, and an 11-year-old stepdaughter. The couple had been married only two years.

LOST FIRST HUSBAND

Mrs. Christian lost her first husband five years ago, police said.

Christian clocked out of the mill at 3.0 a.m. The accident was discovered at 6.25 a.m.

Police said someone living near the crash scene reported hearing a noise at about 3.15 a.m. but it was impossible to determine what time the mishap occurred.

The victim had owned the motorcycle for less than two weeks, police said.

Christian was apparently travelling west on Gorge when the machine went over to the wrong side of the road at the downhill curve, grazed a power pole, and slammed into the wall in front of the San Sebastian Auto Court.

HEAD INJURIES

His body was found lying on the sidewalk beside the wall. He died instantly from severe head injuries.

The motorcycle glanced off the wall and ran another 82 feet down the road before hitting another pole and coming to a stop in the auto court driveway.

Saanich Deputy Police Chief Bert Pearson said there have been "many" accidents at the Gorge-Harriet hill and a number of fatalities over the years. Christian's death was the ninth of the year in the Greater Victoria area resulting from traffic accidents.

An inquest is pending.

Five Motorists Fined in City For Carelessness

Five persons pleaded guilty in city police court today to careless driving and were fined up to $40.

William John Brady, HMCS Naden, was fined a total of $85 as the result of an accident on Blanshard Aug. 4 when he pulled away from the curb and hit another car.

He was fined $50 for driving without a licence and $35 for careless driving.

Malvina Fidler, 473 Marigold, was fined $25 for driving without a licence and $35 for careless driving. She collided with another car at Haultain and Fernwood Aug. 4 after failing to observe a stop sign.

A $40 fine for careless driving and one-month's suspension of his driver's licence was ordered by Magistrate A. L. Thomas for Kenneth Murray Dawson, 2837 Parkview. He was involved in a rear-end collision on Quadra Aug. 3.

Thomas Payne Rasmussen, Drake Hotel, and Roy Dunsterville Chandler, 19 Eaton, each were fined $35 for careless driving.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me how Port Angeles got its name, and when? J.M.

A.—It stems away back to the days of the Spaniards on this coast. Naturally a harbor as spacious as that enclosed by what was later named Ediz Hook attracted the attention of Spanish navigators. Appearance of a name on a chart of the harbor seems to date back to 1781, when Captain Francisco Aliz called it Puerto de Senore de los Angeles. Later Captain Galliano and Captain Valdez took a hand in whittling down the name, and finally, in 1792, the great Captain George Vancouver completed the changes by reducing it to the form it now bears, Port Angeles (port of the Angeles).

Q.—Will you please tell me the address of the department of vital statistics in England? J.P.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I should have known better than to get into a political discussion in this space. Yesterday some of the aims and objects of Our Very Own candidates were outlined here, in a very mild and temperate measure.

And already the storms of protest are pouring in. I am being accused of favoritism, just because I reported the plans of Our Very Own candidates (namely, Messrs. Fadd to Fudd, inclusive, and sometimes Fydd.)

I am deeply hurt by these charges. All things to all men, I always say, and it is a long worm that has no turning. Possibly the blitest attack on my integrity comes from a leader in the Flogelism movement.

"You are a capitalist, socialist, communist, will-of-the-ist," this gentleman snarled at me over the telephone. "You are ignoring the Flogelism movement."

The reason this cuts me to the quick—even the quicker, possibly the quickest—is that the first publicity for the Flogelism movement appeared in Between Times.

But I do not wish to be put in the position of publicizing only Our Very Own candidates, (namely Messrs. Fadd to Fudd, inclusive, and sometimes Fydd.)

To prove I am sincere—and I mean this very sincerely—I will devote the balance of this space to an exposition of Flogelism, as detailed to me by the leader in the Flogelism movement who 'phoned to chew me out.

This is the answer to Flogelism, who is she? in the words of the Flogelism leader.

"Flogelism is a Flogel in every pot, two Flogels in every garage, and fifty-four Flogels in flight."

"Flogelism guarantees a Flogel with your coffee during coffee breaks, which is not only a break for you, but for coffee, too."

"Under a Flogelistic system, all roads will be Flogelized, with a smooth, Flogel surface, with one exception."

"This one exception happens to be the road leading to your house, but you can't have everything, can you?"

"Flogelism is all things to all men, all men to all women, and a Flogel by any other name would smell."

"A vote for Flogelism certainly is."

Never let it be said I do not give equal space to all political parties—excuse it, movements—or that I am partisan. Or even franstisan.

I trust this meets with your a-Flogel.

Esquimalt Approves Gorge Survey

A full report on restoration of the Gorge Waterway, with a canal from Thetis Cove to Portage Inlet "if necessary," was requested by Esquimalt Council Tuesday.

Council approved municipal engineer John Gnaeme's suggestion that funds be set aside to hire a "qualified waterways engineer" to study city council's Gorge waterway improvement plan.

"It is of the people talking about this plan are laymen," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele. "We should have a professional man look into it."

City council has asked support of all municipalities for the project.

Inflation Here Now, Says Banker

Inflation is here and there's no doubt whatsoever about it, T. D. Lewis, Montreal, superintendent of securities for the Bank of Montreal, said in Victoria today.

"There are definite signs of inflation in our economy now," he said, commenting on recent Bank of Canada moves on credit.

"By making credit tight, it makes the borrower think twice before paying the new high rates," he said.

"A policy of controlled credit and higher interest rates is to 'spread' production" and not have the economy boom "all in one pot."

There is no indication that today's spiralling costs will ease in the foreseeable future, he said.

ACTS AS BRAKE

But shortened credit tended to act as a brake to this, he said. Mr. Lewis is here only for the day, his first visit to Victoria. While here he met with investment dealers and officials in the provincial and city treasury departments.

Of British Columbia, he said there "is tremendous investment opportunity here with excellent growth possibilities."

The Bank of Montreal "has something of everything" on Vancouver Island, he said.

Mr. Lewis has been with the Bank of Montreal 33 years, 29 with the securities division.

25,000 Face Loss of Votes

Quick Election Won't Allow Time To Complete Work of Registration

Thousands of British Columbians are threatened "blitzkrieg" provincial election.

Many believe the provincial electoral office will be unable to complete registration of voters before registrations close next Tuesday.

At least 10,000 eligible voters living in the four Greater Victoria ridings must get their names on the electoral rolls before next Tuesday evening if they want to cast ballots in the Sept. 19 election.

It is suggested that the total number of names not on the rolls could go as high as 25,000.

SHORT TIME

There is also a chance that many voters who fill out registration cards will not get on the rolls due to the short time left in which to process applications.

Premier Bennett is under fire by opposition leaders for fixing the election date at the shortest possible legal period—38 days.

The government made this possible in 1953 by securing an amendment to the Provincial Elections Act which cut the period allowable between issue of an election writ and polling day from 59 to 38 days.

SEVEN DAYS

This means that whereas voters were previously given 14 days in which to register, they now have only seven days.

"It is unofficially estimated that between 100,000 and 150,000 eligible voters throughout the province are still unregistered. Electoral officials admit that it will be 'difficult' to get all these people on the voters' list in time."

One of their biggest "head-aches" will be arranging registration for loggers and backwoods workers who are unable to leave their jobs to register.

Thousands of such workers are involved.

Of the 79,555 Greater Victoria registered voters in 1953 only 59,818 cast ballots, and since then it is estimated that more than 5,000 new voters have taken up residence in the Victoria area.

About 650 are estimated to have reached the voting age of 19 years since 1953.

W. H. Ryan, registrar of voters, said five enumerating stations are in operation today and more will be established as quickly as possible. Between 40 and 50 enumerators will be working to get as many persons registered as possible.

Lightning Knocks Out Transformer

Lightning early this morning knocked out a 12,000 volt B.C. Electric transformer on Millstream road servicing the Highlands area on the heels of a 10-hour thunder rain and lightning storm which covered southern Vancouver Island, southern portions of B.C., and the State of Washington.

Fuses were blown in the Metcosh area, also due to lightning, a BCE spokesman said today.

Service crews replaced the Millstream transformer shortly after it was struck at 6 a.m. Lightning started at 9.30 and flashed sporadically until 7.29 a.m. Thunder started at 4.40 a.m. and ended at 7.48 a.m.

Thunder is unusual in this area because of weather formations here, and last night's rumblings were the first of the year. Last year there were only two thunderstorms, both in July.

During the thunder-lightning period, one-tenth of an inch of rain fell, spread between 5.17 a.m. and 7.48 a.m.

The storm was caused because cool air from the Pacific brushed the area. Cloudiness will continue today and Thursday morning with the sun breaking through in the afternoon. No further rain is anticipated.

A forestry department spokesman said the general, though light, rainfall has temporarily postponed forest closure.

"It improved the forest situation, though we are still watching it closely," he said.

In the Vancouver forest district, which embraces Vancouver Island, seven small fires are burning, all under control.

LIFE BEGINS AT 56

Still frisky as a young colt after four hours 46 minutes of bucking four-foot waves, a gusty wind and 47-degree water, 56-year-old grandfather Bill Sadlo of New York trots up the ramp at Fisherman's wharf following his unsuccessful Juan de Fuca strait attempt. Sadlo outlasted his more famous partner, John Jaremy, by more than 2½ hours.

Sadlo Steals Show In Twin Strait Bid

By DENNY BOYD

Bill Sadlo, 56-year-old second-stringer on the John Jaremy-Sadlo swim team, stole the thunder away from the first string Tuesday in a twin assault on the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The double-barrelled assault was doomed before it ever started, but Sadlo, a grandfather and a swimming coach in a New York college, in his failure, put up the most amazing display of persistent bad-water swimming since the strait swim craze began.

Jaremy, only man to swim Lake Ontario, failed to live up to his advance publicity or to his own quotes, which included, "It's only 18 miles and if I can see the other side I can make it," and "I'll probably sprint seven miles before I take my first feeding."

1½ MILES

Jaremy, who couldn't see the other side because of fog and never did take that first feeding because he didn't last long enough, stayed in the water for one hour 55 minutes and made about 1½ miles.

His coach and manager, Pat Roach, said, "John swallowed too much salt water and got sick."

Jaremy said, "I knew I wasn't going to make it, so I saw no sense wasting my strength."

Jaremy started off at a brisk 64 pace while the methodical, trudgeon-stroking Sadlo started slowly at 52 and was soon 200 yards behind his partner.

But when Jaremy made his departure, Sadlo stroked on.

HOPELESS

Water conditions, even at the start, were hopeless—so hopeless in fact that navigator Stan

Page said the only reason he was taking the swimmers out was because they insisted.

A wind, gusting to 20 miles an hour, was blowing into Sadlo's face and he was ploughing through four-foot waves. But his long-reaching stroke even though it dropped to 36 at some points, carried him through the waves like a log.

Sadlo didn't stop for a feeding until he had been going for 3½ hours and then it was a brief stop for a short drink of orange juice. At that time, he was 5½ miles from the Breakwater, where they started at 12.30 and he had Ross Bay at his back, four miles back.

WOULDN'T STOP

At 4.30 Roach pulled the navigation boat, Meota, close to Sadlo and tried to convince the swimmer of the hopelessness of the conditions. However, Sadlo would not even stop to listen.

AS WE LIVE

Try Releasing Tensions
With Laughter Not Tears

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Laughter and crying are both methods of releasing pent-up emotions. One serves as well as the other, as I pointed out to the young mother who wrote:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I find myself dissolving into tears several times a day, no matter how hard I try to control myself. I get so disgusted with myself and I know my husband is disgusted with me. If I cry when we are out, he gets so embarrassed that he wants to go home. I never did this until recently and I don't know what makes me behave this way. We have four small children, all close together, and they do get on my nerves at times. I am always tired, too. Do you think that has anything to do with my crying?"—M.L.

(A)—Your being tired certainly does have something to do with your crying. In fact, that is unquestionably the major cause of it. If you were more rested and relaxed, the things that make you cry now would doubtless overlook under more favorable conditions.

The first thing you should do is to have a physical check-up. Tell your doctor what your duties at home are, how things get on your nerves, and how you give way to tears. He may want you to take some medicine to calm your nerves until you get some rest and can build yourself up physically.

In the meantime, you can handle this problem by forcing yourself to laugh more often. It is hard to laugh, I realize, when everything seems to be going wrong and when work piles so high that the end is never in sight.

However, there is always a silver lining to even the darkest cloud and you should look for this. When the children get fussy and hard to handle, say something funny or do something to make them laugh. This will relax them just as a hearty laugh will relax you and the strained situation will then improve.

If you can make it a habit to have several hearty laughs every morning, afternoon and evening, you will be surprised to discover that you do very little crying. Your crying has been a release of the emotional tensions that have piled up within you. By releasing these tensions through laughter—and no one could complain about your laughing—there will then be few tensions left to release through crying.

Class Initiated
In Moose Lodge

Seven women were initiated at a business meeting of Victoria Chapter, No. 25, Women of the Moose, in K of P Hall. The senior regent, Mrs. M. Bentham, presided and the group was named the Mary Morry class, in tribute to her services in the chapter since it was instituted 35 years ago. Initiates were Mrs. E. Emmons, Mrs. L. Matheson, Mrs. M. Villart, Mrs. Z. Watts, Mrs. P. Cleveite, Mrs. I. Cleveite and Mrs. W. Petty.

Announcement was made by Mooseheart chairman Mrs. P. Booth of a sewing bee this Thursday at the home of Mrs. B. Stevens, 1320 Slater Street, and a Halloween party in October. Membership chairman Mrs. P. Smith told of plans for a paper drive in which collections will be made through telephone 5-2072.

Arrangements were discussed to charter a bus on August 25 to Weir's Beach for a beach party at the home of junior regent Mrs. E. Cooper, who is spending a month there. Tickets will be available on August 23.

Mooseheart Alumni chairman Mrs. K. Caffery convened the chapter night program. A buffet supper was served from a table decorated with miniature boats of all types in a Navy Day and vacation theme, set on a turquoise-toned paper cloth to represent water. The theme was completed with ar-

UN Tour an Exciting Experience

By KITTIE DIXON

An attractive Victoria teenager "can't wait" to return to school next month. Seventeen-year-old Patricia Petrie is anxious to tell her classmates about her 35-day trip to New York on the Seventh Annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth.

Patricia, who won the expense-paid trip by placing first in an Odd Fellows public speaking contest, on the subject, "My Community and the World," has just returned to her home on Little Saanich Mountain, where her father, Dr. R. M. Petrie, is director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. She is a student at Victoria High School.

The tour has given Patricia an overall picture of the United Nations and its functions that will aid her in helping to organize a model UN at school, where a United Nations Club has already been formed.

Patricia's week in New York with 99 other delegates from schools across the continent included a guided tour of the ultra-modern United Nations Building, attending sessions in the building, making visits to headquarters of delegates of member nations and lunch in the delegates' dining room.

The teenagers' busy schedule was designed to include sight-seeing and relaxation, too. They were given choices of top Broadway shows, latest movies, symphony concerts and other attractions.

SEES 'FANNY'

Patricia selected the Broadway musical, "Fanny," starring Lawrence Tibbett, over "Pajama Game," "No Time for Sergeants" and a big league ball game, Brooklyn Dodgers vs. Cincinnati at Ebbetts Field.

Another night she saw the famous "Rockettes" at Radio City Music Hall and still another outing took her to the new movie, "Oklahoma."

On the Sunday she went to church at St. James in Hyde Park, and sat two rows from Eleanor Roosevelt.

A three-hour boat trip around Manhattan Island was arranged for the students and they ate at Frances' Tavern, where George Washington bade farewell to his officers, December 4, 1783.

Although New York was the ultimate destination, the UN tour took its delegates on a zig-zagging bus tour of Canada and the United States, stopping at Ottawa where they saw Prime Minister St. Laurent and part of the session in the House of Commons and at Washington, DC, where they saw President Eisenhower.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep a 5-ounce can or two of buttered almonds (the roasted and diced kind) on hand for making ice cream treats. Wonderful straight from the can on plain vanilla or chocolate ice cream, or to top your favorite sundae sauce.

Cooked new peas and large dry lima beans make a flavorful two-course meal in this sauce. Combine a can of condensed cream of chicken soup with 1/4 cup milk and a tablespoon chopped chives.

Spread thin slices of sour dough French rolls with this mixture and serve with chilled tomato juice or cocktails. Combine softened cream cheese with finely chopped bits of crisp bacon, green pepper, peeled tomato and walnuts. Season if desired.

Shovels slide more easily if rubbed generously with soap.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Strengthen Ankles Now
For Winter Ice Skating

It may seem strange that I am writing about ice skating in the middle of the summer but you must admit that it is a cooling idea. Also, if you have trouble with weak ankles when you skate or want to learn this winter, there are exercises you could take between now and then which would be of the greatest help.

Ice skating is a wonderful sport. It is not only wonderful exercise but has an added value because it is done outdoors. It is also splendid for developing balance and grace. In the past ice skating was limited to cold climates but today practically all cities have rinks. If you live in a warm climate the zippy cool air while exercising will give you a lift.

You can learn to skate at any age but it is easier when you are young. If you learn when past early youth you should begin slowly and carefully so you won't break a bone. Actually the middle-aged woman who wishes to learn should have expert instruction. If you are younger and are going to begin this sport during the coming cold season let me give you one bit of advice. Always lean forward so that you will fall forward.

Large Family

MARKDALE, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. William Stoddart, 80, has more descendants than she has years of life. Mother of 10 children, she has 50 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Take a cup each of butter-milk and apricot whole fruit nectar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1/4 cup sugar. Mix with electric blender for a most refreshing pick-me-up drink.

LOUTS DAMAGE LOOKOUT
IN BEACON HILL PARK

Vandals on a rampage in Beacon Hill park overnight smashed 38 window panes in the lookout building and pulled up a drinking fountain at the bowling green.

Police believe the damage may have been done by six drunken youths who also entered an apartment building at 1030 Park boulevard and broke flower vases and stands in the entrance hall.

FINAL BULLETTINS

Douglas of Sask. May Aid CCF's

VANCOUVER (CP)—Saskatchewan's CCF Premier T. C. Douglas probably will take part in B.C.'s provincial campaign.

He said in an interview from Regina today that the move is under consideration "if I can work it in." He will decide next week, he said. His entry into the B.C. campaign would be in the nature of a "return call" on Premier Bennett.

B.C. Lions Drop 2 Imports; 5 to Go

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Lions announced today that import backs Reichardt and Carl Mayes and end Sam Adams will not be among the 28 players present when Lions open the Western Interprovincial Football Union season at Calgary Saturday night.

They were dropped from the roster as Lions trimmed their import strength to 17 Americans. Five more will have to go at the cutoff date, 42 hours after the third league game.

Three 4-Minute Milers for Britain

LONDON (UP)—Three men who have run a mile in less than four minutes were on the British track and field team named today for the 1956 Olympic Games but only one of them will compete in the 1,500-metre event—the metric mile.

Britain will depend mainly on Brian Hewson, a London tailor who ran the mile in 3:59.8 in May, 1955, in the 1,500-metre competition. Ken Wood of Sheffield and Ian Boyd of London will be the country's other entries in this race.

Nanaimo Gas Installation to Start

NANAIMO (CP)—Work will start immediately on the installation of a gas utility here. Work has been received by Dr. Larry Giovanno, MLA for Nanaimo, and president of the Nanaimo Gas Co. Ltd., that a franchise had been granted by the B.C. government and Public Utilities Commission.

The project will cost $1,000,000. Engineering has been completed and pipe and steel have been ordered.

B.C. Woodworkers to Join Carpenters

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 520-member B.C. Woodworkers' Union has voted 238-210 to join United Brotherhood of Carpenters rather than International Woodworkers of America, it was reported today.

Unionists here say the switch in "loyalties" to a former Trades and Labor Congress Union—the carpenters—gives a new indication of the way unionists are regarding the merged Canadian Labor Congress as the united house of labor.

Vancouver Oak St. Bridge Takes Life

VANCOUVER (CP)—Construction foreman William McGowen was killed today while working on the new Oak street bridge across the north arm of the Fraser river between Vancouver and Lulu Island.

It was the first fatal accident on the big bridge job. McGowen, employed by Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd., slipped while jumping from a pier to a scow and fell into the river where he was drowned. Two other men jumped into the river in an attempt to help him but he vanished.

TOPS IN TEENS

Young Man With Horn Anxious For More Chances to Blow It

Bob Keziere is a young man with a horn who wishes he had more chances to blow it.

In short, Bob plays trumpet with five other budding young musicians in an aggregation formed about a year ago while he was at Mount Douglas High School. They're looking for work.

"So far we've played at a Little League dance and done a few other jobs," says today's top teenager, "but we're always on the lookout for more."

Bob has been playing the trumpet for nine years or, precisely, since he was 10 years old.

Sometimes, when the bands in the mood for some "clowning around," he'll swap instruments with the other members.

Bob wants to make a career in the entertainment world—but not on the blowing end of a horn. He's interested in radio and television and hopes to make his mark in the programming end of the business.

SINCE GRADUATING from Mount Douglas this spring, Bob has been making inquiries on the best way of getting a start in this work, including a trip to KING in Seattle, where he was given encouragement.

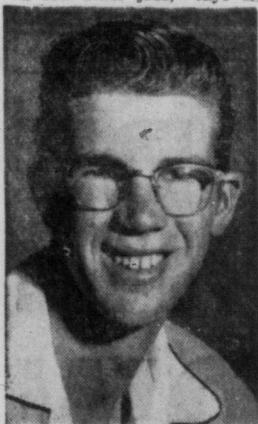

He has applied for entrance to the Technical School in Seattle and hopes to be able to start in on a four or five-year course, including field work, early next year.

In the meantime, he'll continue working as a handyman at the Canada Packers' plant at Ogden Point to earn some money.

Bob, who describes his school marks as "nothing terrific," was nevertheless recommended all the way through high school.

He took a commercial course and although music took up most of his time, played basketball and most of the sports that were going.

Bob lives with his parents and two younger sisters at 1299 Oakmount.

MALTESE ASK ACTION ON STATUS

VALLETTA, Malta (AP)—Britain, beset by troubles with Cyprus and Egypt, ran into another Tuesday—an appeal for an immediate showdown of the future of Malta.

Maltese Premier Don Mintoff issued a statement asking Britain for "urgent, high-level political decisions" to settle the future of this strategic island in Britain's chain of Mediterranean bases.

Mintoff previously had been negotiating to have Malta incorporated as a political part of Britain with direct representation in Parliament.

Announcement that the Maltese government has asked Prime Minister Eden to take steps concerning "the deteriorating state of affairs" on the island was accompanied by a report of financial crisis.

SIXTH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Doll House for Princess Anne Built by City Man's Brother

BY TONY DICKASON

Golden-haired Princess Anne is six today, and one of her favorite gifts is a doll house which took six months to build. Edmund Zala, 67, brother of Victorian H. T. Zala, 75, 2206 Lydia, of the London furniture firm of Harris Lebus Ltd. built the house.

It has lights that light, a radio that plays, bathrooms that have running water, a roof garden with a tiny pond and a fountain that works. And there are two cars in the garage.

Edmund "Ned" Zala, whom his brother here describes as "troubleshooter" for the 5,000-member firm, together with company chairman Sir Herman Lebus had the recent pleasure of presenting the doll house at Buckingham Palace.

"We heard the excited chatter of two voices," he wrote to his brother, "and the Queen came down the stairs with the Duke and the two children."

The children excitedly explored everything and Mr. Zala quoted Prince Charles as saying "mummy, I think this is the most wonderful doll house in the world."

The doll house is scaled one inch to the foot, and measures six feet long and three feet in height.

Imagine a princess without a doll house? Well, that was Princess Anne's position until her recent gift by the firm. The affair started 10 months ago when the Duke toured the London factory and the staff asked if they could make some doll's furniture for the princess.

"The Duke told us she had not got a doll's house, so we thought it would be a nice surprise if we made her one," said Sir Herman.

"I had no idea how completely my time would be taken up or the magnitude of the task," wrote Mr. Zala, who delayed his retirement to handle the project.

"I have had an enchanting six months. The 20 minutes or so we had with the wonderful little family went all too quickly."

While Princess Anne danced with excitement, Prince Charles was more interested in the technical side of the doll's house. He looked at the trolley on which the house stands so he could see the battery that works the lights.

"The doll's house is now in the children's school on the first floor of the palace."

Donald Archer is really in tune with the times

High fidelity sound expert Donald Archer says:

"On older phonographs and records you could hear only part of the sound range. Today's 'hi-fi' systems reproduce the lowest and highest notes of the musical scale with startling realism. This modern development has meant great progress in the recording field."

As a family man, Mr. Archer also benefits by continuous progress in another field... life insurance. Policies are more flexible and more adaptable to the needs of individual families.

Today, you can obtain life insurance policies that provide not only basic protection but ready funds for emergencies, also policies for education, for safeguarding your home, for protecting your business and for ensuring your retirement income.

In addition, many restrictions on obtaining life insurance have been removed in recent years.

Moreover, life underwriters, who make life insurance their career, are better trained in the exacting task of helping people select policies that best meet their requirements.

In these and other ways, the life insurance companies in Canada have progressed with the times... meeting the needs of people in all walks of life!

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

The amount of life insurance owned by Canadians has doubled in the last seven years.
